SEWER PLANS ARE READY FOR BIDS

Official Approval Is Given By Los Angeles Board Of Public Works

The last obstacle standing in the way of advertising for bids on the construction of Glendale's sewer has been removed, City Manager V. B. Stone reported today, when the final plans and specifications of the main sewer running from Aviation drive to Sixth street, Los Angeles, were officially approved by the Board of Public Works in Los Angeles.

The official approval was given yesterday afternoon, City Manager Stone said, after Mayor Spencer Robinson, Chester A. Smith, representing Burns & McDonnell, consulting engineers for the city of Glendale on the construction of the sewer, and City Manager Stone visited the office of the board of public works.

Before City Council

The complete plans and specifications will be given to the members of the City Council tomorrow morning for their approval, it was announced.

"Mayor Robinson did some mighty fine work in getting the approval of the board works for the sewer plans," City Manager Stone said, "and he deserves a great amount of credit. There has been a lot of hard and tedious work connected with these plans, and, until we had the approval of the board of public works, we could not advertise for bids. Now we can go ahead."

Work to Go Ahead

The action of the city engineering department of the city of Los Angeles in changing locations, designs, depths and carrying capacity caused the city engineering department of the city of Glendale to prepare seven different sets of plans and specifications before the final set was approved yesterday, City Manager Stone said.

The board of public works is vested with the power and authority to approve such plans and their action is final, City Manager Stone said, so all that remains before the actual construction work will start is the advertising for bids, letting of the contract and selling the bonds.

Judge Lowe Accepts Peter Hanson's Apology On 'Revenue' Statement

F. H. Lowe, police judge of Glendale, has accepted the apology of Peter Hanson, local realtor, relative to the latter's statement before the Optimist club to the effect arrests were being made for revenue purposes. Mr. Hanson, in his apology, states that he did not intend to make such claims in submitting his report to the club. Judge Lowe, in a letter to The Glendale Evening News, containing a copy of Mr. Hanson's apology to him, states that as far as he is concerned the whole incident is now closed.

Following is Judge Lowe's letter to this newspaper:

August 13, 1924.

A. T. Cowan, Publisher,
Glendale Evening News,
Glendale, Calif.

Dear Mr. Cowan—The attached is a copy of a communication brought to me by Dr. R. H. Boyer and Mr. Olsen, president and secretary, respectively, of the Optimist club of Glendale, who authorized its publication.

I have accepted Mr. Hanson's apology, and as far as I am concerned, the whole incident is closed.

Yours respectfully,
F. H. LOWE.

The communication from Mr. Hanson to Judge Lowe, referred to by the latter in his letter given above, follows:

Glendale, Calif., Aug. 12, 1924.

My Dear Judge Lowe—I have just had a talk with Dr. Boyer about the committee report given before the Optimist club last week, from which report it appears the impression was gained that the Coronado conference was of Glendale's officials only, and that they had gathered there for the sole purpose of discussing means of raising revenue by arrests, and that 95% of the fines were for revenue only. If such impressions were given, or if statements were made to give such impressions, I want to correct them, for I do not want to put our city officials in a wrong light as going to a conference for that purpose. This was a state conference, and the discussion of the new traffic law was only one of many subjects by the different representatives of the different cities. As I did not intend to make such statements, and if they were made, they were made in error in deviating from my notes, so I gladly correct them, and apologize to you and the city officials for any wrong impressions resulting from this report.

Yours respectfully,
PETER HANSON.

MORE IDEAS GIVEN ON SAFETY

Writers Relate Experiences In Driving; Tell How Accidents Caused

Numerous suggestions on how to eliminate automobile accidents were received by the Safety Week Editor of The Glendale Evening News during the contest conducted by The Glendale Evening News last week. The three judges, M. Walters, Cameron D. Thom and Henry Kuhn, all members of the Citizens' Traffic commission, after awarding first prize to George H. Ashbaugh, rural route No. 2, and second prize to Joe V. Griffin, a fireman at Central station, 311 East Broadway, picked out a number of letters worthy of honorable mention.

Every letter received by The Safety Week Editor of The Glendale Evening News contained much food for thought in the way of care and caution while driving. Some writers stated their own experiences wherein their car figured in an accident, and how it could have been prevented, or witnessed accidents that could have been avoided.

Three letters are printed today from the many who are entitled to honorable mention. They follow:

Passing Car Near Corner Dangerous

Safety Week Editor, The Evening News:—I can most highly commend your paper for its effort toward promoting greater safety for life and property, all because of an avoidable accident I myself had just today.

There were two causes, one is a general one (the other fellow wasn't looking); the other, I was going too fast.

That sounds like a confession, but it's not the point. THE POINT IS, NEVER PASS A CAR TOO CLOSE TO THE CORNER. This is, I feel, a good rule for careful drivers, and one that such drivers will be glad to have brought to their attention, as it can happen so easily, even with full observance of all the general traffic rules and regulations.

Here is how it works out: First, I consider myself a very careful driver, trying to live up to all rules and regulations. Yet today, as I was going west on California at about eighteen miles, I approached a truck. I blew and passed. He was probably 125 feet

Ice Forms Around Greenland As U. S. Airmen Plan To Resume Dash

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER RICHMOND, OFF REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 13.—(By Wireless to International News Service).—The United States cruiser Raleigh, patrolling off the Greenland coast, reported this afternoon that weather conditions had turned bad.

Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, American round-the-world pilots, may not be able to hop off for Angmagsalik tomorrow morning as they planned.

The Raleigh has been caught in the ice and cannot move for any great distance because of danger to her propellers.

If it is possible for Smith and Nelson to jump to Angmagsalik tomorrow, they hope to reach Ivigtut Friday, departing thence for Indian Barbor, Labrador, Sunday.

The most vigilant measures for protection are being taken. They provide that the Richmond shall sail tonight instead of tomorrow morning. She is to take up a station half-way to Angmagsalik. After the planes pass the Richmond will steam to Indian Harbor.

The Raleigh, Milwaukee and the destroyers will be anchored about ninety miles apart.

Argentine Aviator Blows Five Tires

CALCUTTA, Aug. 13.—Major Zanni, Argentine round-the-world aviator, met with further misfortunates while trying to start for Rangoon today. He made five attempts to hop off, bursting a tire each time.

Italian Ace Flies In Americans' Wake

KIRKWALL, Scotland, Aug. 13—Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian long-distance flyer, left Houton bay today for Hornafjord, Iceland. He hopped off at 11:08, following the same route as the American aviators. After flying a short distance Locatelli encountered bad weather which compelled him to return to the Orkneys.

Army Flyers Start Denver-Texas Dash

DENVER, Aug. 13.—Lieutenant James H. Doolittle, pilot, and Ewart Plant, observer, hopped off from Lowry field at 5:20 o'clock this morning in an army De Haviland plane for San Antonio, Texas. They are expected to make a stop at Fort Sill. The aviators arrived here late yesterday from San Diego, Cal., after a ten-hour trip with a stop at Grand Junction, Colo. They are believed to be making aerial photographs for the war department.

Air Route

The heavy line shows the jump of the American round the world flyers from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Umivik, Greenland, from where the course lies to Rigolet, on North American soil.

The heavy line shows the course of the American world fliers from Umivik, Greenland, their landing place on the jump from Iceland. to Rigolet, on North American soil. The dotted line indicates the route from Rigolet to Montreal, Quebec. From there the fliers go to Boston.

Mexico, Soviet Resume Diplomatic Relations

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—Official relations between Mexico and soviet Russia have been restored, it was officially announced today. Negotiations for restoration of normal relations were conducted at Berlin.

M. Pestkosky has been named Russian envoy to Mexico City.

EX-PUGILIST ACCUSED OF SHOOTING 3 OTHER PERSONS

Former Wife of Millionaire Dead; Another Woman, Two Men Wounded

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Norman Selby, known through a long ring career as Kid McCoy, today shot and killed Mrs. Therese Mors, ex-wife of Albert Mors, former millionaire New York manufacturer, in an apartment here in an exclusive residential district, according to police officers who questioned him on the scene of the crime.

He then, according to police, went on a "shooting" rampage and shot another woman and two men.

William G. Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Schapp all reported seriously wounded by McCoy.

Ross is in a critical condition and is not expected to live.

Captured in a nearby park, where he was found running and brandishing a gun, McCoy was dragged to the room where Mrs. Mors lay dead.

The former pugilist, disheveled and panting for breath, calmly denied he killed the woman.

Although severely grilled by the officers, McCoy insisted he did not shoot Mrs. Mors.

"She separated me from the only woman I ever loved," police quoted McCoy, who has been married nine times and who was said to be engaged to wed Mrs. Mors, as saying as he faced his accusers.

But he refused to admit he had killed the woman.

May Be Suicide Pact

Late today police were investigating a theory that Mrs. Mors and Selby had entered a suicide pact, as developments indicated this might have been possible.

Mrs. Mors was found dead about 10 o'clock this morning in one of the rooms she and McCoy had occupied since July 10 under the name of Mr. and Mrs. N. Shields, according to the police.

According to persons living in the building, a shot apparently in Mrs. Mors' apartment was heard about 2 a. m. Nothing was thought of it, however, and no investigation was made.

Mors, the dead woman's husband, was located by police this afternoon. He refused to talk, but said later he would have a statement to make. Mors was taken into custody, although no formal charge had ben placed against him late today.

Held For Murder

From the apartment, McCoy, heavily guarded, was taken to jail and held on charges of murder.

After shooting Mrs. Mors, po-

Recruit Men to Fight New Blaze Near Chico

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—Four trained forestry officials were rushed to Chico today following the flaming up of a new fire in Lassen National forest which reached such alarming proportions within a few hours that emergency fire-fighting measures were resorted to.

The blaze is northeast of Chico in what is described as the Magalia district. It already has totally destroyed more than 2,000 acres of timber, said reports received here by the United States district forester's office. A force of nearly 200 men was being hurriedly recruited to stem the blaze.

FIVE HURT IN CRASH

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Dr. J. C. Jones and Dr. F. D. Astello and three caddies were injured here today when the physicians' car skidded and crashed into a tree. The doctors were on the way to a golf course.

Fight Rate Increase For Edison Company

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—That a determined fight will be made to prevent any increase in rates of the Southern California Edison company was evidenced today, when representatives of twenty-six cities in the southland appeared before members of the State Railroad commission with a request that application for higher rates be denied.

The hearing, which opened today, is for the purpose of reviewing evidence submitted recently and for the introduction of new evidence.

The company has asked for a 20 per cent increase over a period of nine months, effective September 1.

The commission granted a ten per cent increase effective September 1 over a period of eight months, but later this was rescinded.

A final decision in the matter is expected within ten days.

Await Navy Decision On Shenandoah Tour

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A definite decision will be reached on Friday with respect to sending the dirigible Shenandoah on a western tour as far as Denver and Fort Worth, it was announced at the navy department today. The Shenandoah is now operating with the fleet off the Atlantic coast and some naval officers think that she cannot be spared for the western flight.

Freighter Rushes to Aid Stranded Vessel

MANILA, Aug. 13.—The shipping board steamer West Katan is aground on Providence Reef, according to a report reaching here. The freighter Stockton is rushing to her assistance.

LOUIS D. OAKS SUED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Louis D. Oaks, former chief of police in Los Angeles, is named defendant in a suit for divorce on file here today. Mrs. Oaks charged habitual drunkenness and desertion.

One Dead, Forty Ill Of Ptomaine Poison

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Mary Hewetson, wealthy church worker, is dead here today and forty others are ill as a result of ptomaine poisoning, following a luncheon at a Presbyterian church conference. Miss Rose Hewetson, daughter of the luncheon victim, is dangerously ill. Physicians are making tests of food served at the meal.

50,000 Drown, Millions Homeless In China Floods

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13.—Death toll in the terrific floods that have swept vast areas of North China is extremely heavy, possibly reaching 50,000, according to reports received here today from the devastated provinces. Millions are homeless.

In the Kalgan district it is estimated 4000 persons lost their lives in the breaking of dikes.

Thousands of villages were inundated and great tracts of farming lands flooded.

Two thousand villages in the Tien Tsin region were wholly or partially submerged.

Advices from the devastated regions say that the authorities fear pestilence and famine.

Soldiers are being used for relief work.

Damage was greatest in the provinces of Chi Li Honan, Huan and Kwang Tung.

Tremendous damage was done to livestock and crops. The monetary loss is incalculable, the report stated. The Pei-Ho river was in flood and for a time the city of Tien Tsin, with its great foreign population, was in danger.

Floods followed heavy rains and the melting snows.

BUSINESS GROWS FOR LOCAL FIRM

Pioneer Printing Company's Plant Ranking High On West Coast

The Pioneer Printing company, which is located at 716 East Broadway, is rapidly taking its place among the larger printeries on the west coast. The hum of its machinery seemingly never ceases and a look-in on the interior would cause one to speculate as to whether it were doing all of the job work in Glendale.

In addition to the regular run of printing this firm holds contracts for all of the job work of one of the largest laboratories in Southern California, which is one of its best recommendations.

Fred Wilkinson, who is one of the principal factors of the Pioneer Printing company, is well known in Glendale and is an aggressive citizen, as are all those associated with him in this firm, and through their affability and goot service they have built an enviable business in a comparatively short time.

Change In Policy of Cafe Is Announced

L. L. Black, proprietor of the Golden Mill cafe at 137 South Brand boulevard, in the rear of the Orange Mill, states that, beginning today, a new policy is in effect. There will be no dish over 25 cents and all vegetables will be charged at the rate of 5 cents a dish.

Since the Orange Mill has been sold many people thought the Golden Mill has changed hands, but Mr. Black states that he continues as proprietor.

Mr. Black won the title of the "original hot cake king" during many years of business in Hollywood, and that reputation has followed him to Glendale.

Sweethearts Confess Death of Girls' Rival

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 13.—In the county jail at St. Joseph today are Emile Zuppke, 24-year-old factory hand, and Zuppke's sweetheart, Florence McKinney, 19-year-old daughter of a Royalton township farmer family. Both by confession last night admitted the murder of Cora Raber, 25-year-old rival of the McKinney girl for the love of Zuppke, according to authorities.

Zuppke, according to his confession, choked the Raber girl to death as she rode by his side in his roadster. And, driving at the wheel, sat Florence McKinney, an accomplice to the crime, she admitted, officers state.

RIVAL QUEENS IN RACE FOR CROWN

Fair Candidates for Honors At Exposition Strive For First Place

BURBANK, Aug. 13.—Interest in the contest for queen of the San Fernando Valley industrial exposition, to be held at Burbank Sept. 9 to 13, has developed such great enthusiasm that the original idea of confining the choice of a ruling queen from Burbank has been abandoned and the election will be thrown open to all cities of the valley.

Already Glendale has nominated one candidate, and others are assured from that city, with every indication that Hollywood, San Fernando, Lankershim, Van Nuys and other cities will make nominations.

The list includes Miss Margaret Sanderson, Mrs. J. C. Isbell, Mrs. Helen Allen, Miss Edna Crane, Miss Frances Riley, Mrs. Walter Fisher, Miss Virginia Hare, Miss Myrtle Aiken, Miss Rina Valentine, Miss Mildred Peck, Miss "Dutch" McKinley, Miss Ruth Lockett, Miss Betty Enyart, Mrs. Esther Smith, Miss Pearl Loomer, Miss Ruby Malone, Miss Marion Ottinger, Mrs. Harry Kendig, Mrs. Art Whipple, Mrs. Clarence Skeen, Miss Flossie Short, Miss Margaret Church, Miss Caroline Mussana, Miss Ida Brown, Miss Anne Lang, Miss Madeline Vollborn, Miss Veda Isbell, Miss Marjorie Anderson, Miss Florence Mundy, Miss Jane McLaughlin and Mrs. Paul Moorman.

Space for Exhibits

Definite announcement is made today that the exposition will be held in the fine new building of the American Aluminum Manufacturing company, where 50,000 square feet of floor space will be available for the exhibits of the scores of manufacturing enterprises located in the valley that are already filing their applications for space. Assurances of cooperation are pouring in from the Chambers of Commerce functioning in the several valley cities. Indications are thus made bright for one of the most highly valuable educational expositions ever held in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

Plan Stunt Night

The local camp of Modern Woodmen has designated its meeting of August 22 as stunt night. In honor of the occasion the Woodmen of all the camps of the San Fernando valley have been invited to be the guests of the Burbank camp with the understanding that each one of the visiting camps bring with it the best stunt that it is able to conjure up.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Jesperson have moved into their beautiful new court on 148 Cypress avenue. It will be known as the El Catherine court.

O. A. Dockman, expert jeweler and watchmaker, formerly of Oakland is opening a store at 146 West San Fernando boulevard, and expects to be ready for business about the middle of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Anderson, after spending a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robison of Orange Grove avenue, have returned to their home in Elko, Nevada. They were accompanied by Mrs. Anderson's sister and niece.

Two Lightning Bolts Kill Forest Lookout

ALBUQUERQUE, Aug. 13.—The theory that lightning does not strike twice in the same place was dispelled recently by reports from the forests of New Mexico.

Some time ago Victor Ortega, fire outlook in the Carson Forest was killed by lightning. Details were lacking. A report to the district office here has just been filed.

Ortega was struck by the first bolt about 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the lookout cabin on the top of Canpilon mountain. His leg was severely burned. While Mrs. Ortega was dressing the wound the second bolt crashed in, striking Ortega on the head. He was killed instantly.

Harding Memorial on Oregon Trail Planned

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 13.—Plans for the erection of a memorial to the late President Warren G. Harding atop the Blue Mountain, near Meachem, Ore., have progressed to a point where the sponsors of the movement have secured an option on 90 acres of ground which they propose to use for the purpose of the erection of a vista house, surrounded by a public camping and recreation park. The proposed site is situated on the Old Oregon Trail and has endless advantages for the purpose to which it is to be put.

DIRECTS DAHLIA EXHIBIT WORKERS

Mrs. C. A. Kirksey Appointed Head of Committee for Coming Show

EAGLE ROCK, Aug. 13.—Arrangements for the annual dahlia show will be in the hands of committees headed by Mrs. C. A. Kirksey of Hill drive, it has been announced. Mrs. C. W. Young, who was in charge of arrangements for previous shows, will be absent from Eagle Rock for several months, on account of a trip to eastern points, and selected Mrs. Kirksey to take charge.

Mrs. Kirksey is capable of handling all details, as she has served in various capacities in connection with dahlia shows in previous years. Mrs. Kirksey will have the co-operation of a number of Eagle Rock organizations, and local merchants, who are now making arrangements for using dahlias for decorative purposes from now until the opening of the show.

No definite date for the show has been set, inasmuch as it is impossible at this time to determine when the flowers will be in full bloom. It is presumed the flowers will be earlier this year on account of the drought.

Arrange Publicity

J. J. Broomall, well-known dahlia grower, has promised to supply the local motion picture theatre, where Manager Drey is running a slide for the dahlia show, with beautiful bouquets of choice flowers for the lobby. He will cut these twice a week so that from now until the doors are opened on the dahlia show the patrons of the United theatre will be reminded that this is the "Dahlia City." Mr. Broomall has also announced that later in the season he will be able to provide effective bouquets for household use, or for the decoration of business houses at nominal prices.

The girls' auxiliary of the Women's club has volunteered to take charge of a booth and will have a special meeting to make arrangements for their display in the near future. Miss Dorothy Squire, president, will appoint her committee to supervise the work they assume at that time.

Mrs. W. R. Johnston is on a short business trip to the Navajo Indian reservation in Northern Arizona. While there she will meet and enjoy the fellowship of a large number of Indians with whom she worked during her twenty-five years' residence there. She is purchasing a large stock of Navajo rugs for her store at the corner of Colorado boulevard and Eagledale avenue.

Popular Pastor Will Remain Another Year

SUNLAND, Aug. 13.—Rev. W. E. Smith, "Parson Bill," as he is called by most who know him, will fill the pulpit of the Sunland Baptist church another year as a result of a call issued by the church board. It had been his intention to leave for other fields, but the urging of friends has influenced him to stay.

Rev. Smith has been pastor of the Sunland church but a year, and in that time has secured a new site and erected a new $12,000 church which stood free of all incumbrances the day of the dedication last month. He has done much practical work among the needy of the community and his friends have freely expressed the belief that Parson Bill has given Sunland the finest example of practical, constructive Christianity since the days of the circuit rider thirty years ago, when Sunland was in the first years of its founding.

Strong, Silent Men Are 'Dumb,' Is Claim

LONDON, Aug. 13.—These so-called "strong, silent" men may be strong, according to Winston Churchill. It may be they are silent only because they are dumb.

"Too often," said Churchill, in an address before a class of college graduates, "the strong, silent man is silent only because he does not know what to say, and he is reputed strong because he has remained silent."

Churchill urged the collegians to develop a real "gift of gab"—that is, to have something to say and learn how to say it.

Queen of Verdugos

The winner of the contest will be crowned "Queen of the Verdugos" and will receive a beautiful diamond ring at a coronation ball at 7 p. m. Labor Day at the Garden of the Moon outdoor dancing pavilion. A $150 radio set will be given the holder of the vote coupon bearing the lucky number. Polling places for casting votes or nominating candidates have been established at the Tujunga drug store, Rice's cafe, Sunland; La Crescenta drug store and Montrose drug store.

The Picnic Club met recently at the home of Mrs. F. L. Goldsborough, Los Robles avenue, for a picnic dinner. Among the members present were Mesdames Morgan, Zachau, Cruickshank, Goods, Murrie, Adams, Forbush, Goldsborough and Misses Franke, Morgan and Zachau.

Clarence C. Buck is Tujunga Valley agent for the National Automobile club.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Aug. 13.—Children and friends of Mrs. Katherina Eakin arranged a surprise birthday party picnic at Monte Vista park, Sunland, in celebration of her 70th anniversary. A long table in the park was set and decorated and the guests ready to greet Mrs. Eakin when what she thought was just a little automobile ride terminated there.

Many flowers from friends' and neighbors' gardens were used to decorate the table, and a huge birthday cake decorated with seventy candles set in pink roses occupied the center of the table. Three sons and three daughters and their families were present. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. C. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. S. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Goode, Mr. and Mrs. F. Good, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Overholser, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kautz, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McCann, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Murrie, Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wakefield, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Coke, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bobo, Mrs. W. D. Wright, Miss Laura McRae, Miss Maud McConnell, Miss Aileen M. Logan, Bonnie Garland, William, Sam and Ault Eakin, Adalina and Lois Coke, Junior Murray, Ralph Coke, and Georgianna Bobo.

Mrs. Powers and daughter of Glendale have been visiting in Tujunga.

Miss Elizabeth Walsh is a recent arrival.

L. K. Park, Los Angeles attorney, has been spending a short vacation in Tujunga.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Kilgore have left for an extended trip in the east.

G. Branscom of Los Angeles has been staying in the Tujunga hills for a vacation.

Woman Kills Children, Cuts Her Own Throat

LINDSAY, Ontario, Aug. 13.—Mrs George Fanning, who strangled her two children on an improvised gallows yesterday and attempted to end her own life by slashing her own throat, is expected to recover today. George Fanning, the father, found his wife sitting on her bed with a knife wound in her neck. He called for his two children, Louis, 8, and Bernice, 7. Receiving no answer, he searched the house, and found them in the next room, side by side on the floor, with a tightly-drawn cord about the throat of each. Both were dead.

Governor Al Smith Has Miniature Zoo

ALBANY, Aug. 13—Governor Smith's miniature zoo at the executive mansion continues to grow. Already the governor has upward of a score of animals and birds, including a black bear cub, a fawn, two monkeys, a white turkey, a raccoon, dogs and a yellow owl. The owl is the latest addition to the menagerie. It was presented to the governor by two Albany youngsters who captured it while playing in a deserted ice house.

Why "One-Shot" is Winning America!

EAST—west—north—south—in every state in the Union—the 1925 Cleveland Six is being seen—discussed—bought—and driven with delight!

NAZARENES HOLD REVIVAL SERVICE

Rev. O. B. Ong Conducts Meetings at Church; Music on Program

Rev. O. B. Ong, evangelist, is conducting a series of revival services at the First Church of the Nazarene, 1032 South Glendale avenue. The first of the series was held Sunday with a very large number of Glendalians in attendance.

Rev. Ong for eighteen years conducted revival services for the Friend church and is now an evangelist for the Nazarene church. He is known as "The weeping prophet." He will conduct a service each night this week at 7:30 o'clock with the exception of Saturday night. A prayer service will convene at 7:15 o'clock each night.

In addition to the message being delivered by Rev. Ong, a special musical program has been arranged for presentation each night. Two special features of the musical program include piano selections by the boy pianist, Vernon Wilcox of Lankershim, and violin numbers by Miss Lulu Lesan. Both of these young people are giving generously of their time and talent.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Glendalians to attend these services, it is announced.

Montrose Boasts New Grocery Meat Market

MONTROSE, Aug. 13.—Two new stores have been added to the business district. M. Dranger and W. H. O'Brian have opened a grocery at the corner of Ocean View and Del Mar avenues. A complete line of groceries, vegetables, fruits and delicatessen goods will be carried. Light lunches and ice cream will also be served.

Earl and H. M. Hobensack have established a meat market with fruit and vegetable departments at 108 Honolulu avenue, Verdugo City. The market will operate in connection with the grocery conducted by Charles H. Easton.

Plan City Funerals To Curb Morticians

LISBON, Aug. 13.—Following complaints that undertakers in this city are profiteering, the municipal council is considering a proposal to establish municipal funerals.

The proposal suggests that there should be four different classes of funerals—the first for the rich, the second for the middle class, the third for the working people, and the fourth, which would be free, for the needy.

ASSOCIATION MAY ADOPT NEW NAME

Fourth Street Improvement Body to Consider Matters Of Vital Interest

The Fourth Street Improvement Association will hold its regular monthly meeting in the Grand View school, Thursday night, August 14.

The matter of a new name for the association, which has been suggested for some time, will be brought up for discussion, and other matters to be considered are: Improvement of the Verdugo Wash especially from Pacific avenue to Louise street; house to house mail service for those parts of the northwest section where there is now only rural route service; paving Fourth street from Grand View to the Burbank city limits; school matters; and consideration of the various items recently recommended by the Citizens' Bond committee as well as other matters suggested by those sending in the questionaire, which was circulated throughout the northwest section about thirty days ago.

Glendale Vocalist to Return From East

Miss Elizabeth Mottern, talented Glendale singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Mottern of 211 North Adams street, who has been studying voice during the summer in Chicago, Ill., is to leave for home Saturday night, arriving next Thursday morning.

In a letter just received by her family, Miss Mottern tells of the storms being experienced in Illinois. Thunder is continuous, and she states that one day recently doors and windows were torn down in the western part of the city. She is residing in the northern part of the city.

During her absence Miss Mottern has kept in touch with Glendale events through The Glendale Evening News, which has been sent to her every day by her brother, Dorsey Mottern, who is a carrier boy for The News.

Troop 6—Mrs. J. E. Buie, captain; Alice Ayars, Beatrice Guenther, Mary Fleming, Alice Pelly, Eleanor Russell, Dorothy Ciark, Dicksy Lane, Doris Stamps, Barbara Stamps, Edith Wintersgill, Edna Paull, Audrey King.

Final Instructions

For the information of those going to the camp the following final instructions have been announced:

Have all bedding and cots at 333 West Riverdale drive not later than Friday evening, August 15. They will be taken by truck, leaving room for girls and their suitcases in autos. All bedding and cots must be marked plainly.

All those going to camp are requested to stop at Harvard High school Sunday morning and register in order that a check can be made of girls en route to camp. Those having cars are asked to take one or more girls having no means of transportation.

All leaving for camp will start from the Harvard High school at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, August 17, taking their own food for the day. The camp opens officially Monday morning at 7 a. m.

Girls are requested not to wear their good uniforms in the car. Take only the clothing necessary and of such quality as to stand the hard usage of camp life.

Plea for Transportation

Mrs. W. R. Wichert, secretary of the council, says:

"The foregoing instructions are imperative to avoid last moment confusion and anyone who for any reason cannot comply with them, will kindly call Glendale 2193-J, where they will be taken care of by special arrangement. Do not call your captain, as all lists are now in the hands of the council.

"We feel there may be a shortage of automobiles to convey the girls to camp and ask that parents and friends lend their hearty cooperation and help transport the campers to and from camp.

"Parents and friends of the Girl Scouts are invited to visit the camp during its progress. Bring your luncheons and spend the day at the beach.

"All mail directed to the girls should be sent to them in care of Girl Scouts' camp, Hollywood Beach, Oxnard, Cal.

"Owing to the ten-mile detour on the state highway, all parties are directed to drive through Santa Susanna pass to Oxnard, and then to Hollywood Beach."

Relate Experiences On Motor Trip North

Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeve Darling and daughters, Daphne and Patricia, of 151 South Brand boulevard, are giving interesting accounts of a vacation trip they just completed. They were accompanied by Henry C. Chandler, economist of the National Bank of America of New York city, and William Jennings Bryan, Jr., of Los Angeles.

The party motored north to Yosemite and on to Crater and Klamath lakes. They camped part of the time and enjoyed fishing.

RESTORATION OF FORESTS NEEDED

Thousands of Streams, Lakes Lost Through Waste of Timber, Is Claim

"The maps of the United States today, as compared with those published in 1850, show that 6600 streams and lakes have disappeared from this country, and this is due solely to the destruction of our forests, either through forest fires or by the cutting of the timber that once clothed our hills," declared George H. Barnes, president of the American Reforestation association, in an address before the Angeles Forest Protective association at Monrovia last night.

"We are losing almost one-half of all the water that falls on this country because we have so little vegetation on our hills to hold it," continued Mr. Barnes, "and through the disappearance of seven-eighths of our nation's watersheds we have already overdrawn our water supply for the next seven years."

Value of Trees

Mr. Barnes pointed out the value of trees in the conservation of moisture, asserting that the growth of trees regulates the rainfall throughout the world. He cited the example of China's destruction of practically all its timber, which, he said, is one of the main causes of the frequent outbreaks of famine, pestilence and flood that sweep that country, and he emphasized the statement that the United States is second in this respect to China.

"Through our lack of a sound reforestation policy we are yielding our crown to the desert, and we have already permitted 3,290,000 acres of once fertile land to return to barren waste," concluded Mr. Barnes.

Glendale Second

Eleven members of the Glendale unit of the Angeles Forest Protective association, led by Chief P. J. Hayselden, motored over to Monrovia to participate in the regular monthly meeting of the association, Glendale having the second largest delegation of any of the fourteen cities represented and being exceeded only by Monrovia's own turnout.

Following the dinner that was prepared for the guests, reports of the association were presented and plans for the combatting of fires in the region covered by the association were discussed.

Maneuvers of the entire membership of the association are to be held at Mount Wilson on Saturday and Sunday, September 13 and 14.

The regular weekly meeting of the Glendale unit will be held tonight at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock, and all interested in the protection of this territory from fires are urged to attend.

Assessment Lists on Improvements Ready

Assessment lists have been prepared by Ben S. Dupuy, street superintendent, for improvement work on Raymond avenue from Kenneth road to Glenwood road, and the lists have been filed with City Clerk A. J. Van Wie. The hearing on this matter has been set for 10 o'clock on the morning of August 28. The hearing on the assessment lists for improvement work in the first alley west of Jackson street, Jackson and Harvard streets, has been set for the same time.

The list of unpaid assessments for improvement work on Kenilworth avenue from Vine street to Riverdale drive has been filed with the city clerk and a hearing has been set for 10 o'clock on the morning of August 21. A hearing on the list of unpaid assessments on improvements on Adams and Maple streets has been set for the same time.

Noted Soprano Joins Local Music Circles

Mrs. Louise Cowan Bigelow, coloratura soprano, who has achieved success in New York and Boston, has come to Glendale to reside at 446 West Maple street, and to join Glendale musical circles as vocal teacher and soloist.

A student of Madame Freda Ashford in New York, and of Marchesi and Jean de Reszke in Paris, Mrs. Bigelow is highly praised by eastern critics, as evidenced by the indorsements and press comment she has in her possession. In addition to her musical activity, she is to serve as Pacific coast representative of Miss Mason's school at Tarrytown on the Hudson, New York. Mrs. Bigelow's mother, Mrs. Margaret A. Cowan, accompanied her to California, and will also reside in Glendale.

STRENGTHEN C. C., SANDERS PLEADS

Retiring Secretary, at Last Meeting, Thanks Board For Co-operation

In his last meeting with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce as a board, Secretary E. F. Sanders last night, at the weekly meeting, urged the directors present to get behind the Chamber of Commerce and build it up to a greater strength than ever, in order that it might fulfill the function that it is supposed to perform in the development of Glendale.

"No other organization," declared Mr. Sanders, "can advance the interests of a city as can a Chamber of Commerce, which is composed of members from every element that goes to make up the city's population."

Mr. Sanders also expressed his appreciation of the co-operation and support that had been given him by the board during the three years he has been working for the organization, and D. H. Smith, first vice-president, who presided, wished Mr. Sanders good luck and Godspeed, on behalf of the board.

Balance in Bank

The final financial statement presented by Mr. Sanders showed that he will close his connection with the Chamber of Commerce on Friday, August 15, leaving a balance of $1619.88 in the bank after all salaries and current bills have been met. This sum is made up of $1288.35 now on hand, from which is to be deducted $106.94 for bills allowed last night; $279 for salaries due August 15 and to the balance of $902.41 is to be added $717.47 from the advertising fund.

For the remainder of his stay here, before going to Beverly Hills, where he will manage the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Sanders will place the affairs of his office in order to hand over to his successor, Howard I. Wood, who will take over the position on August 18.

A committee consisting of Directors Earle C. Pendroy, Fred Deal and R. F. Kitterman was appointed to confer with Clem Moore, past commander of Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, regarding the plans for holding the Knights Templar field day here October 25, and to take up especially the proposal to clear Brand boulevard, between California avenue and Colorado street, of traffic for an hour, in order to permit the commanderies to parade in mass formation along the boulevard.

The request of the Balsh Automobile company, asking for endorsement of its plans to run an automobile stage line between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles, via Glendale, was referred to the transportation committee.

Advertising Plans

Paul E. Stillman, chairman of the advertising committee, reported on conferences that have been held with the city officials regarding the payment of the $5000 pledged to the advertising fund by the city of Glendale, and on which Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, takes the position that the city cannot pay out the money on any indebtedness which it does not, itself, contract. It is planned, said Mr. Stillman, to have the city of Glendale enter into advertising contracts to cover the amount of the city's pledge, and he favors an immediate resumption of the advertising campaign, in order to stress to the many new arrivals in Southern California the progress shown in Glendale by the July building permits.

Secretary Sanders was instructed to address a letter of sympathy to L. C. Brand, who is reported to be very ill at present, and to send him some flowers from the Chammer of Commerce with the directors' wishes for his speedy recovery.

Consideration of several complaints that the city of Glendale is having all of its auto and truck repair work done in one establishment was laid over for a week, pending a report at next week's meeting from Director Lyman P. Clark on replies to a questionnaire that has been sent out by the Glendale Automobile Dealers' association covering this point.

Thanks of Synod

A letter from Rev. W. E. Edmonds thanked the directors for their co-operation during the sessions of the Presbyterian synod of California and Arizona here in July.

A warning from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen stated that men who have been soliciting advertising and representing themselves as acting for the brotherhood are fraudulent, and warned the business interests of the city to beware of them.

The request from the Salinas Chamber of Commerce that the local organization wire President Coolidge opposing any reduction in the tariff on sugar was tabled by the board.

Educational Campaign By Newspapers Reduces Accidents, Says Expert

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Praise for newspaper educational campaigns advocating "Safety First" for the motorist was given today by George H. Grace, chief of the Pacific Electric Railway company's efficiency bureau, as he pointed with pride to the decreasing number of accidents per thousand cars showed by the interurban reports.

Mr. Grace classifies the work of the Pacific Electric's campaign as follows:

1. Safety first, courtesy next on the part of all employes.
2. Education of the public to think of safety first.
3. The installation of safety devices such as automatic flagmen, which are comparable to traffic signals.

Rules are laid down for trainmen which are very strict, particularly in the relation of electric cars and automobiles. A motorman is not exonerated in case of an accident, according to Mr. Grace. The report of his mishaps is spread upon his record.

Educate Public

Educating the public has been a difficult task, but, through the aid of newspapers with their cartoons and reports of fatalities, there has been a tendency on the part of even the most careless drivers not to attempt to beat the trains to a crossing.

More than 400 automatic flag signals now are being operated by the Pacific Electric and the present year's program calls for the installation of seventy-six for the protection of vehicular traffic.

As a result of these factors ever since 1913 there has been a gradual decrease in the number of accidents until June of this year when a high figure of 23.6 per cent decrease was noted over June of 1923.

Expenses Reduced

In 1913 there were thirty accidents to 1000 automobiles in the district served by the Pacific Electric. In 1923 there were ten per 1000 motor cars, figuring the southland had 40 per cent of the 1,000,000 average cars in use in the state.

The expenses on account of accidents for the Pacific Electric has been reported to be 100 per cent less than the average of other coast electric lines, perhaps due to a personal interest taken in the subject of "Safety First" by Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific, which owns the Pacific Electric, who now is in the city of Los Angeles.

In cold figures presented by Mr. Grace, accident claims last year were less than 2 per cent of the operating revenue of the Pacific Electric, whereas the average for all lines on the coast is 4.3 per cent.

Accident Causes

A table showing the cause of accidents comparing the month of June this year with that of last and revealing the decrease is contained in the August issue of the Pacific Electric magazine, and following is a recapitulation of all divisions:

	1924	1923	Pct. Decr.
Interferences with vehicles	430	492	14.4
Collisions and interferences with cars	30	49	63.3
Persons struck by cars	13	14	7.7
Derailments	39	48	23.1
On and off moving cars	43	64	48.9
Miscellaneous	92	133	44.5
Total	647	800	23.6

It may readily be seen drivers and pedestrians are more at fault than trainmen, the largest number of accidents occurring on the western division which crosses the many beach boulevards. More people are struck by cars, however, on the southern division which includes Long Beach, Santa Ana and country lines.

"The trainmen are expected to foresee what the motorist is going to do," Mr. Grace stated. "However, if the motorist does that which is absolutely wrong, nothing will prevent an accident. Therefore, we must enlist the cooperation of the public in aiding us to lower our already remarkable record of Safety First."

Mah Yung and Pun Loy, 77 years old, lived in the United States sixty years without seeing a railroad train.

Six centuries ago Edward the Second forbade the playing of football in England because it was noisy.

MANUAL TRAINING VACANCY FILLED

Marvin E. Dunn Succeeds to Jas. G. Bailie's Post In Local Schools

Marvin E. Dunn, assistant supervisor of manual training in the public schools of Glendale, today is supervisor of this work, following the action of the Board of Education at the meeting held last night, when the members of the board accepted the resignation of James G. Bailie as supervisor of manual training, and appointed Mr. Dunn to succeed Mr. Bailie.

Mr. Bailie, in his resignation, stated that he was leaving Glendale to teach in the schools of Los Angeles. Edgar Nace was named assistant supervisor of manual training to succeed Mr. Dunn.

Lois M. Hanna was appointed as a teacher of music and departmental work by the members of the board last night, and Glenn S. Flinn was appointed a teacher of physical education.

Bids on school desks, office furniture, books, maps and school supplies, were opened by the members of the board last night, but no awards were made. The bids were laid over for further consideration.

Miss Annie Louis McIntyre, assistant superintendent of schools, presided at the meeting last night in the absence of Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, who is taking a three-weeks' vacation. Mr. White will return to the office next Monday, it was announced.

Former Glendalian Is Chosen Academy Head

Capt. Kenneth M. Barager, graduate of the Glendale Union High school, is headmaster and commandant of the new Southwest Military institute of Long Beach, capitalized for $100,000, and occupying five acres on the south slope of Signal Hill overlooking the city and sea.

Associated with him is Capt. W. S. Marmaduke, a nephew of Dr. Roy V. Hogue of 329 North Jackson street, and a member of the Glendale Royal Arch Masons. Capt. Marmaduke was for four years associated with the Page Military academy of Los Angeles. He is business manager of the new institution.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

TRUTH CANNOT WIN—
When wise men hold each other under suspicion.
When money holds the unchallenged power of judgment.
When creeds are of more concern than character.
When party loyalty is made the test of good citizenship.
When men undertake to divorce knowledge and conscience.
When no man stands willing to die for the cause.
When youths are trained in deception by their parents.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

Claiming that a new theory was injected into the Loeb-Leopold trial by the defense, a news item says that had the murderers never met it is probable that the Franks boy would still be alive; that they supplemented and complemented each other and their crime was the result of their association.

There is nothing new about such a theory. Where two are associated in crime or in doing good, each brings something to the other. Usually one is the leader and is stronger than the other, and this is true in the Chicago case. There are many instances where a crime would not have been committed by one alone, but, aided and abetted and encouraged by a fellow criminal, the deed was done. People have always supplemented each other in evil deeds as well as good.

"Like seeks like," and "opposites attract" seem like contradictory statements, but both are true and both are applicable here. People of evil tendencies seek their kind and then they make intimates of those who have what they lack.

It is interesting but useless to speculate about what would have happened if what did happen had not happened. Of course the fatalist believes that nothing could have happened but what did happen, and as far as the past is to be considered, he might as well be right, for the result is the same.

But, those who do not believe in predestination, at some time or other, have looked back at some little incident in their lives that seemed unimportant at the time and yet proved the turning point of their existence, and they have wondered what their lives would have been had this not happened. Our relatives, friends, even the people we meet most casually, all have some influence upon us and we upon them. Leopold and Loeb are no exceptions to this rule. None of us lives alone, and we are always supplementing each other in some way.

A driver comes to the point where the road forks. He is not familiar with the country, but he must make a choice. In after-time, when he is far away, he may wonder where that other road led. He may picture in his mind lovely scenes that might have delighted him had he taken the other road, beautiful vistas through the arching branches of trees, blue lakes nestling in the hills, clear, singing, pebbly brooks seen from rustic bridges, picturesque old mills, sun-crowned mountain tops in the distance and at the end of the road, home and all it means. All this is interesting, but idle dreaming. We cannot go back over life and take the other road even though the one we have selected leads over barren wastes. We cannot eliminate the influence others have had on our lives and they must always feel the result of our contact with them.

One woman could not decide for a time which of two men she wished to marry. She finally made her decision and would have been happy, but she made her own life miserable speculating as to what might have been. Had she married the other would her husband have married some one else? She decided he would and was consumed with jealousy. How much of his success was due to her influence, and would he have been more or less successful had he married another? What influence would she have had upon the other man had she married him? What would her children have been like? The possibilities of such speculation are never-ending, but entirely futile.

The poet spoke truly when he said,

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

It is well to use our past experiences to steer a straight course for the future, but it is unwise to put too much stress upon what might have been.

The Franks boy is dead and no amount of speculating on what might have been and no theory of any kind can bring him back.

A PREMIUM ON FAILURE

La Follette and his followers seem to wish to discredit President Coolidge and John W. Davis on the ground that they represent the monied interests of the country. Coolidge is not a wealthy man and his record so far would disprove the statement that he is a tool of Wall Street. Mr. Davis may be more or less wealthy, for he has been very successful in his profession. But from whatever walk of life a candidate for president is called, whether from the farm, the newspaper office, the bank or the bench, he should be a successful man, for unless he has proved that he can make his own private affairs prosper there is no surety that he can make good as president. Of course the fact that a man has been a successful lawyer or a successful banker does not guarantee his capability of running the affairs of the country, but if he has failed in other lines there is not much hope of his succeeding here.

A man who has made a success of his life and his calling may have amassed considerable wealth. He may have been employed by large corporations, but if he is a man of integrity these interests will not be able to influence him in the discharge of his duty to the people.

The objection to electing a man to high office because he has made good in his private life is putting a premium on failure and branding this man as dishonorable.

CALIFORNIA CALLS

Reports come daily of improved business conditions in the east and middle west. This, of course, will mean more travel westward in response to California's call, and the transcontinental railroads are said to be preparing for a record-breaking business this fall and winter. Already one railroad reports that there are three people arriving in Los Angeles daily to one who is leaving, and it is to be supposed that the same proportion would hold good in automobile travel. A Los Angeles railway office reported recently that it would take two months to get action on a round-trip ticket that had been turned in for a refund, as so many who had come with the intention of returning east had decided to stay, and the office was swamped with business.

People who are far-reaching are renting or buying homes now before this influx from the east gets any stronger. Real estate men know just what is going to happen. A few who are lying back waiting for rents and real estate values to go down are going to find themselves out in the cold, figuratively speaking, some morning in early fall.

Almost any butcher can whack off a limb, but it takes a skillful surgeon to save a mangled member.

When the law is the bone of contention it's frequently fractured.

CHAINED UP FOR A WHILE

God

By DR. FRANK CRANE

God is so old. He knows such a tremendous lot by experience.

He has been through so many things that disturb us and found that they do not matter.

Generations of men come and go, like waves beating upon the shore, but God is like the boundless ocean which remains forever the same.

God seems to be a necessity of thought. It is silly for people to speculate or dispute whether or not there is a God. If there is not a God there is something else equivalent, the nature of which we do not know.

But the most remarkable thing about God is not that He is so old but that He is so eternally young.

Whatever God has He must have life, and there is no other name for life but Eternal Youth.

As one grows older he is amazed every year to see the young grass growing, the flowers greening and the young lambs hopping.

There is something in all this that corresponds to the nature of God.

He must have a sense of humor, consequent upon His spiritual removal from the earth.

He does not have a sense of tragedy, for tragedy is simply brief life trying to be eternal or force fluttering against its limitations.

With God there can be no limitations. He does whatsoever He wills.

But the most amazing thing about God is not that He is so great, but that He is so small. He sees beyond the confines of the greatest microscope. He is at home among the electrons and the protons.

To Him all the visible phenomena are but rearrangements of those atoms which we cannot see, atoms which now are Man, now are Beast and now are the rocks that strew the field.

God is not only the most stable thing in His universe but He is constantly moving.

He is the secret of force. He moves in electricity, in gravitation, in chemical unions, which are names we give to the infinitely small somethings that we do not understand.

It is as easy for Him to juggle the stars, or guide them in their vast courses, as it is to juggle the atoms. One is as mysterious as the other.

The human mind has its limitations. God has no limitations.

God is the name we give to our human faculties when they are projected beyond all human powers.

He is the nature of Things. And he who has found out the nature of Things, and has conformed himself to them, has found God.

Horoscope

Although Venus dominates in benefic aspect, astrologers read this as an uncertain day. Mars is friendly in influence but Mercury and Uranus are adverse.

This should be a happy wedding day, since it makes for constancy and right sort of domestic partnership.

There is a promising sign for the trying of new plays and introduction of new stars.

Women are subject to vibrations, stimulating and inspiring, urging them to ambitious effort.

Physicians probably will have much work to do at this time when there may be an epidemic affecting the digestive tract.

Mars gives encouragement today to workers in steel, to contractors and engineers.

This is not an auspicious rule under which to complete any negotiation which requires the signing of important papers.

All who write letters, especially political candidates, should exercise extreme caution today. A scandal in which correspondence plays an important part is forecast.

The seers admonish the greatest conservatism in business. Merchants should be especially careful about buying, for the stars indicate that next month will be a time of watchful waiting for big trade.

The total eclipse of the Moon tomorrow, which will be visible in the Pacific ocean, Australia, Asia, and parts of Europe and Africa, is read as presaging extreme changes in many things.

Grave industrial unrest is foreshadowed for England and for parts of the United States.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be most easy-going in the coming year, which may bring anxieties that can be banished by wise policies.

Children born on this day may be inclined toward rather reckless enterprises, but they are likely to be clever and very energetic. These subjects of Leo often lack judgment in business matters.

Government farming of the San Carlos Hacienda, in Mexico, has been unsuccessful and the tract of more than 30,000 acres will be colonized.

Today's Poem

THE TURN OF THE ROAD

Soft, gray buds on the willow,
Warm moist winds from the bay,
Sea gulls out on the sandy beach,
And a road my eager feet would reach,
That leads to the Far-away.

Dust on the wayside flower,
The meadow larks luring tone
Is silent now, from the grasses tipped
With dew at the dawn, the pearls have slipped—
Far have I fared alone.

And then by the alder thicket
The turn of the road—and you!
Though the earth lie white in the noonday heat,
Or the swift storm follow our hurrying feet,
What do we care—we two!

—Alice Rollit Coe.

Who's Who

Officer of the Legion of Honor is the decoration conferred on Miss Anne Morgan in appreciation of her work as first vice-president of the American committee for devastated France. The committee recently concluded its work by handing over the Chateau Blerancourt, which was assigned to it as headquarters by General Petain, in 1917, to the people of Blerancourt.

Miss Morgan was one of eight American women who "organized their office in a shell hole and began their work." She has spent most of her time abroad since.

"Indeed I have, mum," returned Mary. "I was after waterin' them this very mornin'. Ain't it wonderful, mum, how natural the Lord can make them?"

News Want-Ads Bring Results

The Ravings Of a Grouch

I do not say it boastfully, but there was a time when I was wealthy. I had money to gratify my every desire although, I must confess, my wants were neither numerous nor costly. My riches were the result of a boom in real estate a good many years ago in another section of the country and as I had seen other newly-rich lose their heads with the sudden acquisition of wealth, I resolved to lay down certain rules of conduct for myself in order to guard against this. One of these rules was never to buy anything I didn't have the money to pay for and now that fate and the war have reduced me to ordinary circumstances again, my adherence to this rule is one of the things that enables me to sleep well at night. As it turned out I might have been as extravagant as I wished and be as well off today, as I lost everything anyway, but, refusing to become prodigal, dissipated and wasteful, I did not have these habits to overcome when I became poor again.

When I look around me and see how much of the work and trouble and misery of the world is caused by the tendency on the part of some to live beyond their means and either willfully or carelessly get in debt, I am glad I made this rule. I am not speaking against credit. I have had abundant occasion to learn that credit is the thing that keeps the ball of business rolling.

Every day I see men who are hopelessly involved in debt. Often they are men who work for a salary and know to the cent how much they have to depend upon. But they keep buying on credit and just thoughtlessly drift along. They are insulted when they are asked to pay and feel the world has given them a dirty deal because they can't pay. I have all the sympathy in the world for the man who has hard luck, like illness in his family, and so gets into debt, but the one who never looks forward beyond today and so is not prepared to meet the bills that he should know will be presented is the cause of more trouble than the burglar and the highwayman, and his intentions, sometimes, are not much better than theirs. The man he owes is put to great expense to collect the bill and then he likely loses all or part of it. This involves him with his own creditors and compels him to make up the deficiency from honest people who pay their bills.

PHILOSOPHY AIDS BODILY HEALING

Dr. Will Classen Brightens Outlook of Patients In His Treatment

Besides being able to alleviate the physical part of mankind, Dr. Will Classen, osteopath and philosopher, who has established offices at Los Feliz road and South Brand boulevard, second floor of the new Seal building, is not only attracting a splendid practice in the osteopath profession but his knowledge of the philosophy of life is of inestimable value to his patrons.

In the tense, busy world, mankind must not only have relaxation of his physical being but there must be a mental relaxation also, in order to obtain lasting results, and Dr. Classen's ability in this line is commanding much attention.

Chooses Glendale

Dr. Classen comes to Glendale from the state of Nebraska, where he had a most successful career, but he, too, became infected with the California fever and, after a careful survey of Southern California, chose Glendale as his place of permanent residence.

This decision on the part of Dr. Classen expresses wisdom, and no doubt his location in Glendale will be quite an addition to the local citizenry.

CRAZE FOR JAZZ HOLDS ITS SWAY

Aged Dance Devotees Travel With Professionals to Eastern Resorts

By ROBERT TOMPKINS
Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

SPRING LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—A tour of the eastern summer resorts has convinced careful observers that there are as yet no signs of a recession in the dance and jazz mania which has held the United States in its grasp ever since the early days of our participation in the World war.

The dance craze has, perhaps, its most unique expression here at Spring Lake, where a wealthy New York couple, both 60 years of age or more, carry professional dancing partners with them wherever they go. The two aging devotees of terpsichore, it seems, cannot dance well together, but, as they step out on the ballroom floor with their two youthful companions, no jazz is too wild to leave them far behind its tantalizing strains. The menage apparently is a very happy one. Both of the young people who are earning their livelihood by renting their dancing abilities to the two olders are hardly one-half the age of their employers. The four are always seen together in public. They not only dance during the regular ballroom hours at their hotel, but hurry to the grill for the midnight fox trots, and then very often go on out to some of the northern New Jersey roadhouses, where the dancing continues to the early morning hours. Both of the old folks have been heard to express the hope that they might die dancing.

Get Big Salaries

Many stories are rife as to the salaries paid the dancing partners, the general opinion being that both the young man and the young lady receive in the neighborhood of $5000 a year and expenses. It also is understood that the dancing quartette will go to Florida this winter. To outsiders the only disappointing phase of this somewhat unusual modern arrangement is that the young man and the young woman seem never to have a chance to dance together. This does not, however, appear to affect their happiness, constantly expressed by faces wreathed in smiles. The old folks seem to enjoy, also, the attention they attract on the floor with their boyish and girlish companions.

There is little new in dancing this season. Some of the younger set try to impart a collegiate flavor to the assemblies by somewhat grotesque fashions of placing arms and hands and by the swayback pose of the girls, but that has been in vogue among them for a year or more, and the dance designers or creators seem merely to have arrived at the end of their wits. So dancing in the modern sense has come to be a go-as-you-please affair with every man for himself and devil take the hindmost.

Jazz Unclassics

The jazz decidedly is of the symphony variety in most instances, although there are occasional lapses back into the wildly wailing stuff which was so popular when this new "expression" of Americanism first came into the realm of music. Orchestra leaders are vying with each other in attempting to jazz the classics, despite the many protests which have been made by real musicians against such a "profaning" of themes and melodies which have been handed down through the ages and which have come to be regarded almost as sacred.

This turning of the jazz hounds to classical music has more recently been denounced as representing a paucity of ideas of expression among the composers of the so-called new school.

Jazz finds many warm defenders among musicians of the higher rank, nevertheless, and there are not a few who agree with Paul Whiteman that the rendering of classics in what might be called a popular vein or rhythm is calculated to really interest the masses in a better class of music and thereby elevate the entire American taste which has been none too well cultivated at the best.

Florida Planning to Have Movie Colonies

DAYTONA, Fla., Aug. 13.—With the announcement that there will be established a movie colony right here in Florida, near this city, movie promoters now are in the market for scores of beautiful girls. To aid them in their search for beauty there will be a movie ball staged on the beach near here on the evening of August 21, it was announced today.

Local and state beauties will pose before the camera during the evening so as to have their pictures entered in the contest for candidates for the movie colony.

The ball will be participated in by real stars from filmdom, it is announced. There will be a floor large enough to accommodate 500 couples, and the best orchestras in the state will supply music for the occasion, it was said.

The movie colony to be established near here will be known as "Sun City." Construction work will begin in the immediate future, according to the promoters.

PROSPECTS WORRY COAL OPERATORS

Opening of New Fields In West Virginia to Give Big Supply Cheap

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Dealers, producers and miners of coal are worrying about the coal situation next winter. The public, according to the barometer of sales, is pretty well convinced not only that there will be an ample supply, but that competition will be keen.

It is admitted that the number of bituminous mines now developed and the number of miners working are far more numerous than the rate of consumption warrants. As a consequence, many mines are closed or working only part time, and many miners are idle.

This situation will be further complicated, so far as the eastern section is concerned, by the opening of tremendous new fields along the Monongahela river above Morgantown, W. Va. This is expected November 1, when the new government lock and dam above Point Marion, Pa., on the Monongahela is opened. This will permit shipment of thousands of tons of coal a day from the Pittsburgh, Red Stone, Sewickley and Waynesburg veins at cheap rates.

Sink New Shafts

New shafts are being sunk in this area from which the railroads are now carrying 5000 tons a day. The rail rate from Point Marion to Pittsburgh is $1.13 a ton, while the river rate is approximately 45 cents. Recognizing that competition from the bituminous grades will be keen, the anthracite operators have begun an intensive campaign to educate the public as to how to use the cheaper grades of anthracite and get best heating results from hard coal. Anthracite economy service stations have been opened in Philadelphia and will be followed by others in Washington, New York and Boston. Free information on heating problems will be available.

The anthracite operators have advanced the prices at the mines, but competition among retail distributors is already so keen that dealers in most cases have absorbed this increase themselves and have not passed it to consumers.

Millions Saved

About $25,000,000 has been saved to the government through a recent decision of the federal court in Philadelphia. Judge Dickinson, who handed down the decision, held that the government which confiscated coal during the war to run the railroads could pay the mine owners at the rate fixed by the fuel administration and not at the export rates current at the time the coal was seized.

The export rates in most cases were far higher and this cut large sums off the war fuel bill.

Bituminous coal production has been running about 8,000,000 tons a week, but it is estimated that reserve stocks now aggregate between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 tons. A reduction of 20,000,000 tons could take place without threatening a shortage for a short term requirement.

Operators declare that those mines which are unionized and pay miners on a basis of $7.50 a day now can do business at a profit only if their other costs are low and the coal is sold on long term contracts.

RAISE HUPP PRICES

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—The Hupp Motorcar corporation has increased prices on all models, except four-passenger coupes, $25, it was reported today.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Newsboys, messengers, office boys and track laborers can still become railroad presidents.

The rapid and extraordinary rise of the Van Sweringen brothers, O. P. and M. J., to a position of commanding prominence in the railway world adds two more to a long list of names of railroad notables who have risen to the top from lowly positions.

The Van Sweringens, however, did not start to climb the railroad ladder from a low rung. They climbed via wealth earned in the real estate business in Cleveland. But their origin was humble. Both sold newspapers in their youth. Now they control the Nickel Plate, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie and Pere Marquette systems.

The public marveled not long ago when it learned that Patrick Crowley, the new president of the New York Central, one of the three biggest railroad corporation in the country, began his railroad career as a $5-a-week messenger. But his was not an unusual case.

Started as Office Boys

A. H. Smith, after whose death Mr. Crowley succeeded to the president of the New York Central, also started as a messenger. J. H. Hustis, president of the Boston & Maine, had the same sort of beginning. J. E. Gorman, president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, and W. T. Noonan, president of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, were office boys at first. J. H. Byram, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, was a call boy.

C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and W. L. Harihan started as track laborers. E. Pennington, president of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, began as a warehouse man. William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific, was a freight clerk, and W. G. Besler, president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was a trainmaster's clerk. W. A. Mapother of the Louisville & Nashville, was a secretary.

C. R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific, and T. M. Schumaker, president of the El Paso & Southwestern, got their introduction to the industry as telegraph operators. F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie, and C. E. Schaff, president of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, started as brakemen. E. E. Loomis, of the Lehigh Valley, began as secretary to a railroad attorney.

Of course, all railroad presidents aren't Horatio Alger heroes.

Many of the present big executives had their first practical experience in the engineering corps. Among those who entered the industry as rodmen are S. M. Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western; E. J. Pearson, president of the New Haven; B. F. Bush, chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific, and E. N. Brown, chairman of the board of the St. Louis & San Francisco.

Only Ten College Men

W. B. Story, president of the Atchison, first served as an axeman in the corps, and A. T. Dice, president of the Reading, as flagman. N. D. Maher, president of the Norfolk & Western, was a surveyor's clerk. J. Kruttschniti, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific, started as an engineer on construction. L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, and Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania and Long Island railroads, were assistants in the engineering corps.

R. S. Lowett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific; Hale Holden, president of the Burlington, and Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, all commenced their climb as attorneys.

Of these executives, it is shown by a compilation made by F. W. Mitchell, director of personnel of the New Haven, only ten had a college education. Seven of these ten specialized in engineering. The majority of those with college education were self-educated, in that they were obliged to earn the money that paid for their college course by working on the railroad.

This list does not include the scores of general managers, vice-presidents and other executives of the railroad world who have risen from the ranks to responsible positions. The railroad "game" apparently is full of opportunities—for the right men.

SILVER WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. E. Larson Mark Twenty-fifth Anniversary Of Marriage Day

Mr. and Mrs. E. Larson of 1812 South Brand boulevard celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary yesterday, and in the evening received fifty relatives and friends informally.

Carnations, roses and other summer flowers decorated the home for the occasion. During the evening a musical program was enjoyed. Later a wedding cake was cut and served with ice cream and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson, who have lived in Glendale eight years, have three children, Adelia and Albert, who reside at home, and Mrs. Carlson of 331 West Colorado street. They have one grandchild.

WOMAN LOOMS AS TEXAS GOVERNOR

Mrs. 'Jim' Ferguson In Race To Vindicate Name of Impeached Husband

By HARRY C. BINNINGTON
Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

TEMPLE, Texas, Aug. 13.—A quiet sort of a woman, stamped all over from aureole of graying dark brown hair to the soles of simple low shoes, with the certain trademark of the good wife and thirfty home maker, is demonstrating conclusively in Texas the old adage that though "man may work from sun to sun, woman's work is never done."

Ten years of political cyclones raging fiercely about the head of James E. Ferguson, Bell county farmer and banker who became governor over night on the crest of a wave he created by the force of his own personality, and who lost the office overnight in the undertow that came along, failed to discover Mrs. Miriam Amanda Ferguson as anything but the hospitable wife, attentive mother and perfect foil for Jim Ferguson.

But a court decision that said her impeached husband could not be a candidate for office in Texas discovered Miriam Amanda Ferguson to Texas Democrats and to herself.

To Vindicate Name

"Jim and Mamma" Ferguson sat in the spacious living room of their home here two months ago and pondered over the court decision.

"I'll tell you what, Jim," she said, "There isn't a law in the world that will keep me from running for governor and fighting for the vindication of our name."

"And there isn't a force under heaven that can keep you from winning," came back Jim Ferguson, who thinks he knows a thing or two about Texas voters. That sealed the bargain and on July 26, 146,777 Democratic voters in the primary said they wanted Mrs. Ferguson to be governor of Texas. As there were nine candidates, none of whom got a majority, the two highest, Felix D. Robertson, Dallas judge, supported by the Ku Klux Klan, and Mrs. Ferguson, will make a second contest for the nomination, which is equivalent to election.

Wins Strong Support

With seven candidates eliminated from the race, Mrs. Ferguson has received proffers of support from six of them and the other has said privately that he will vote for her. In addition, she has won to her side practically all of the leaders of the forces who have continually opposed her husband, including state senators who voted to impeach him in 1917 and former Attorney General M. M. Crane, chief of the prosecutors in the impeachment contest.

For a week, while returns were coming in, there was doubt as to whether Mrs. Ferguson would finish second in the race and so gain a place in the "run-off primary." During that time her most common posture was one clutching a telegram of congratulation in one hand and a broom or paring knife in the other.

Friend Sends Broom

A Ferguson friend from Dawson sent the broom to be used "in cleaning out the state house." Mrs. Ferguson gave it a thorough tryout on the Ferguson kitchen and back porch.

And while the election returns were still uncertain in their choice, Mrs. Ferguson and her comely daughter, Dorrace, aged 20, peeled two bushels of Texas peaches for winter preserves which they hope will be consumed in the governor's mansion.

After a week of campaigning with "Jim" she was back home this past week-end putting her house in shape and looking after the flowers in the yard.

Two daughters, Dorrace and Mrs. George N. Nalle, of Austin, and a 3-year-old grandson, Ernest Nalle, have been Mrs. Ferguson's chief interests in life, but she has developed suddenly into a real campaigner, and likes it. It is still the magic of Jim Ferguson's "homespun" phraseology that holds audiences spellbound and applauding for two hours, but Mrs. Ferguson prefaces the speech with a few crisp words, thanking the voters for their presence and support.

"Jim's a much better speaker than I am," she says, "but you can trust me to be the doer."

When it began Mrs. Ferguson had not made a speech in her life. She had never belonged to a woman's club.

Enjoys Speaking

"When they told me I had to speak," she says, "my knees became weak and I felt I'd never live through the ordeal. But the campaign swing has got me and I like it now."

Mrs. Ferguson is about 45 years of age, but she won't tell her exact age. She was born of stock that came from Old Kentucky and Tennessee in the early days of the Texas republic, and has lived all her life in Bell county. She is a little old-fashioned in appearance, with large brown eyes, hair a little streaked with grey and a multitude of deep lines well distributed about her strong, forceful face. They are lines that change quickly to battle lines.

Determine Study Course
Class Rooms Too Crowded
Carelessness In Kitchen
July Building Record

By Gil A. Cowan

Once again the young people are leaving for the various colleges and universities to take up the courses of their choosing. While many of them already have arrived at a decision, now is the time for all to determine that whatever they study shall be useful in their future careers.

Too many college students are inclined to experiment—to try this, that or the other thing—to sample around, as it were. Not only are they wasting their own time, but that of their instructors.

Also, college students are inclined to delve in subjects deviating from the intent and purpose of their life work. No doubt such study would have a broadening effect, but to many it is confusing and should be permissible only under the watchful eye of the professors.

For one thing, the writer believes universities not only are too large, but classes are out of range of the personal contact of the instructors, which tends to weaken the reception of ideas. It is a fact that when 2600 students gather to hear one lecture the effect of personality is lost, just as a radio broadcast loses strength when the whole countryside is "listening in."

It would be much better to get 1000 quality graduates from institutions of higher learning than three or four thousand semi-intellectuals.

It would be much better for the idler to stay at home than acquire college tastes without the ability to carry on.

And many of the rich young men and women, some of whom score high in their work, would do well to work for their education instead of leading a life of luxury.

Quite a sensation was sprung today by the report that forty people were sickened by a luncheon served delegates attending the Presbyterian synods. One woman is reported to have died from the effects of the poison.

The incident only emphasizes the necessity for utmost care in the handling of food. It is a wonder that more people are not made sick by the wholesale methods of preparation and cooking and canning of edibles.

One act of carelessness in the kitchen may cause the death of any number of people partaking from the unfit food.

In the language of the day, "Safety First."

Judge L. H. Valentine, hearing the Luther-White suit in superior court, yesterday exercised the prerogative to excoriate the plaintiff and defendant for their actions in no uncertain terms.

There is no need reviewing the incidents, scandalous as they were, but when a judge is forced by the evidence in the case to come forth with a statement which caused the fair woman to weep and the millionaire to blush with shame, the public may rest assured that conditions in Hollywood are no less than described by the brutal, but truthful, tellers of tales. The indictment of the financial backers of feminine film stars, whoever they may be, stands as a matter of record.

Many honest and moral people associated with the motion picture industry will decry with the rest of the world the truthfulness of the situation. But as long as the height of immorality and degeneracy continues the good will have to suffer for the bad.

And there is no reason why the peace officers should not do their duty in cleaning up conditions, of which the public would rather not think or speak, even though it should drive some of the most prominent people from the films.

Glendale has good cause to be proud of its July building record which places this city third in the list of southern California cities. Would that it were possible to maintain a lead over Pasadena and San Diego for the balance of the year.

A good building record is the most effective means of telling the world that prosperity abounds here.

Another record to be attained this week is the very minimum of automobile accidents. So far it has been splendid, and the week should end with no less than half the number of wrecks reported in the preceding week.

However, it should not end there. Safety first should continue the whole year round.

Registration Figures On Primary Announced

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 13.—Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan announced today that registration for the primary election on August 26 totals 1,621,453, over half of which is centered in Los Angeles and San Francisco counties. The figures show a gain of 169,160 over the registration for the primary election two years ago.

Republicans in the state outnumber Democrats three to one. Registration by parties is as follows:

Republicans, 1,084,997; Democrats, 367,277; Socialists, 19,544; Prohibitionists, 19,055; declined to state, 129,508; miscellaneous, 1068.

The registration in three leading counties was: Los Angeles, 572,139; San Francisco, 198,364, and Alameda, 182,185.

GLENDALE LEADS BUILDING WORLD

Per Capita Figures Higher Than Elsewhere, Realtors Told at Meeting

Glendale's lead over other cities in Southern California was graphically shown by figures presented to the Glendale Realty board at its weekly luncheon in The Alley Inn today, when L. H. Wilson showed that Glendale's per capita building construction in July was $22.33, that of Los Angeles was $11.20, and that of Long Beach was $10.34 per capita.

Mr. Wilson's figures were based on the official returns published in The Glendale Evening News of last Saturday, showing that Los Angeles, with $11,599,782 in permits and an estimated population of 1,000,000; Long Beach with $1,419,968 and an estimated population of 100,000; were far behind Glendale with its estimated population of 50,000 and its building permits of $1,126,521.

"Glendale," declared Mr. Wilson, "is not only leading Southern California, but she is leading the other cities of the country by a margin ranging from $2 to $3."

Committees Report

All the committees appointed at the recent meeting at the home of W. L. Twining, chairman of the convention committee, reported, through their chairmen, that they were ready to go into action at once to make Glendale's share in the convention a most successful one, and it is planned to send the local delegation to Pasadena on October 7 one hundred per cent strong.

Glenn D. Willaman, secretary of the California Real Estate association, outlined the program that has been worked out by the executive committee, of which Peter Hanson, president of the Glendale board, is a member, and he predicted that the attendance at the Pasadena convention will throw every former convention into the shade, not only from the point of attendance, but also from the point of merit and variety in the program that is to be presented.

He also told of the plans that are being formed by the legislative committee of the association, under the leadership of Freeman H. Bloodgood, former state real estate commissioner, to present to the next legislature matters that will, if enacted into law, materially aid the realtors of the state in the transaction of their business.

The meeting of the board of directors of the California Real Estate Association, that is to be held at Long Beach Friday, August 15, to consider the solution of the Colorado River problems, will, Mr. Willaman predicted, result in clearing up many of the points that are causing wide differences of opinion among those interested in the development and control of the river.

President Coming

Robert Ennis, president of the national association, will be at the convention, Mr. Willaman stated, and Governor Richardson will, if possible, arrange his engagements to permit his attendance.

Representatives were present from Tujunga, Van Nuys, Burbank and Pasadena, to decide on the route that is to be followed by the caravan after it leaves San Fernando, and a meeting of these delegates with the caravan committee of the Glendale board, with L. H. Myers as chairman, met following the luncheon to discuss the route to be followed.

The visiting delegates were: R. D. Davis, jr., state director, and Jackson W. Kendall, Pasadena; Leo H. Smith, vice-president, and C. C. Buck, secretary, and M. V. Hartranft, Tujunga; G. A. Walston, president, and G. H. Wood, Burbank; and Jas. R. Goldsworthy, president, and M. A. Bessolo, Van Nuys.

Thanks for Sympathy

A letter from George D. McDill, thanking the board for the resolutions of sympathy on the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary K. Phillips, was read.

Mr. Hartranft invited the members of the Glendale board to attend an informal dance that is to be held at the Garden of the Moon in Tujunga tomorrow night by the Tujunga realtors.

Mrs. E. L. Foor, a member of the board, bade her associates farewell on the eve of her departure for Indiana, for which point she will leave on Friday.

Fourteen Nurses to Graduate Next Week

Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, dean of nurses at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, is making plans for the 1924 commencement activities, to begin Saturday, August 23, with the baccalaureate sermon and ending Tuesday, August 26, with an alumni banquet.

There will be fourteen graduates. They will be honored Tuesday night, August 19, at a banquet given by the juniors at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. Pastor Philip Knox of Long Beach is to preach the baccalaureate sermon on the following Saturday. The alumni banquet will be held at the new sanitarium building.

New Ruling Made In Rating of Veterans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Director of the Veterans' Bureau Frank T. Hines today ordered the abolition of paper ratings on world war veterans' compensation, hospitalization or vocational training claims.

Hereafter the boards which rate veterans' disabilities, will come into personal contact with the claimants and their action will be final. Boards will be established in all sub-districts, central boards in New York, Denver, St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, New Orleans and other cities.

from the intersection of Columbus. I increased my speed, of course, to pass, and by the time I pulled up in front of him I was approaching the intersection at too great a speed probably twenty-three or twenty-four miles per hour. Too late, as the saying goes. My brakes gripped too tight and I skidded all the way and bumped the other fellow over.

Now, I feel that, as careful as a driver can and means to be, just such a thing can happen to him, and if you think this is a new and good rule for others to know, why I am very glad to have brought it to your and their attention. Yours very truly,

J. P. FLECKENSTINE,

Keep Close Watch For Pedestrians

Safety Week Editor, The Evening News—I have been driving all through Los Angeles traffic and elsewhere and have never had an accident, which I believe is due to these three rules, which I follow:

1—Always give the other fellow RIGHT OF WAY whether it is his or not.

2—Always take foot off gas and put on brake the instant a child or adult is seen in path of auto.

3—The driver should NOT carry on conversation with others in the car, as this takes his attention from the road.

If these three rules are followed along with the traffic rules published in The News, there should not be an accident of any kind.

MRS. DOROTHY M. WHISTLER,
1520 Orange Grove.

Proper Signals at All Times Urged

Safety Week Editor, The Evening News—I have been driving automobiles over twelve years without any serious mishap, the thing I have been using during that time was TACT. Let the driver of a machine use this, on entering a busy thoroughfare, or near schools, etc., his own gumption ought to tell him to slow down commensurate to an ordinary walking pace, have both eyes and ears open, foot on brake, machine under control and ready at a second's notice to come to a stop. Don't show off with a lot of noise and speed, because the other auto can do just as much damage as yours.

Don't fail to give the proper signals and in good time, not just when you are going to make the turn; if a turn to the left get as near the button as possible, so as to give the party behind a clear course forward, don't make a big sweeping curve to the right before making a left turn. It rather misleads the one behind, who feels tempted to pass you on the left. The same rule applies to a right turn. Hug the curb on the right and signal a right turn. This leaves the center of road free for those following behind.

Don't atttempt to pass another on the right, however far away from the curb; another might be coming out of an alley on to a main street.

Don't cut straight across, but turn to right until the intersection of the street is reached, then make your left turn.

I saw this rule of the road exemplified by a coroner's jury on which I was serving.

I think the boulevard stop should be put into force on all side streets. Hundreds of accidents are averted and congestion is relieved.

An examination for all drivers, and forfeiture of licenses to all and everyone arrested driving in an intoxicated condition.

CONVICTS FIGHT FIRE IN FOREST

Writers Relate Experiences In Driving; Tell How Accidents Caused

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—To meet a fresh break in the Sierra national reserve forest fire raging a few miles from the portals of Yosemite National park, convicts from road camps in the vicinity were being rushed today to reinforce fire-fighters endeavoring to control the fire, which has already burned over 12,000 acres.

This blaze and eight other new ones in the past five days have burned over 40,000 acres in California forests, it was revealed today, and Yreka reports today stated it had again been necessary to conscript fire-fighters to meet an emergency caused by a mountain conflagration in the mountains along the Pacific highway.

Two Towns Menaced

The towns of Jerseydale and Hines Cove are within the fire area of the Sierra blaze and several times have been regarded as in danger.

FIFE DENOUNCES DISTRICT PLANS

Former County Purchasing Agent Enters Race for Supervisor's Job

Charles O. Fife, formerly county purchasing agent, for fifteen years in county work, now a candidate for supervisor in the Fifth district, which includes Glendale, was a visitor here today in behalf of his candidacy.

Mr. Fife said:

"Los Angeles county expenditures for the fiscal year 1923-24, subject to control by board of supervisors and ordered through the purchasing agent, amounted to about $4,000,000.

"My experience as county purchasing agent, has proven to me that at least 10 per cent of this could have been saved. Is $400,000 worth saving to the taxpayers?"

Discussing the acts of the board of supervisors in, apparently, discouraging municipalized county controlled territory, Mr. Fife said:

Tujunga and Sunland

"Why did they, through inspired, maneuvered and manipulated petitions, cut down by three-fifths the territory of Maywood and Beil, whose residents petitioned for an election to determine whether they should incorporate and take over from the county the expense of conducting their own civic affairs and business?

"Why did they actually disenfranchise the 1200 voters of Tujunga and Sunland; rpresenting 5000 people, presenting a similar petition?

"They cut out of the petitioning territory at one slash the town of Sunland; at another, half of the school district, and more than half the townsite of Tujunga and the civic center around which the town had grown, with school, churches, postoffice, telephone office and exchange, water office, emergency hospital, Masonic hall, headquarters of the Kiwanis club and the American Legion.

"That loyal body of 100 per cent Americans, in spite of their desire to 'keep out of politics,' joined the rest in protest against this performance and passed a resolution denouncing it as 'un-American,' the strongest term of denunciation in their vocabulary.

From Tujunga Paper

"Let me read you fifteen lines from a Tujunga paper:

"'Members of the county government have frankly stated that the supervisors are planning to give all unincorporated area the full advantage of city government, with fire protection, building and sanitary inspection, police regulation, sewage and garbage disposal, resident nurses, dump inspectors and the like, ALL ADMINISTERED FROM THE COUNTY COURT HOUSE THROUGH APPOINTEES OF THE SUPERVISORS.'

"That, then, is their dream, a great city government for our county. The paper says they admit it, and their actions prove it. They boast of it and advertise it. Yet every schoolboy knows that the weakest link in the chain of our American, popular form of government is the management of our great cities.

'Horde of Appointees'

"Read the record of big-city building the past three years of your county supervisors advertised on the back of the campaign cards of every candidate for re-election, with its thirty fire districts, its county-wide plan of sanitation and sewage proposal BY DISTRICTS, NOT supervised, but controlled, equipped and conducted; NOT by the people of those districts who pay for it; but by your county supervisors, and a horde of their appointees.

"If you consider that the sort of service you want and an 'adequate return for your county taxes spent,' please do NOT vote for me. This is the first time I ever ran for public office, and I want to go into it clean, and come out the same way.

"For I love this county of Los Angeles, and all the more the more I have come to know it through twelve years in its purchasing office in contact with all its departments of work; through six years as general freight agent or general freight and passenger agent of the Los Angeles Pacific railway, now known as the Pacific Electric, that gridirons this sunny Southland; and through twenty years' exeprience as merchant, rancher and builder of structures, streets and roads.

YEAR'S SUPPLY OF SOAP GIVEN FREE

Unusual Offer Is Made by Washer Wilson; Report Business Better

A special drive on the new A. B. C. Vacuum Cup Washer is being conducted by the Glendale Washer Wilson store, located at 205 East Broadway. Geo. F. Sheran, manager, states that fall business conditions are just beginning to improve, and in his opinion Glendale's merchants will all enjoy a prosperous fall business.

A special feature of this drive is a year's supply of washing machine soap given absolutely free with every new washer sold. This is found to be an incentive that is drawing many new customers for Washer Wilson. The drive also includes the Grand Electric Home Ironer, which Mr. Sheran claims costs only approximately six cents an hour to operate, and the famous Electric Sweeper-Vac, which sweeps and cleans by air alone.

lice said, in the Nottingham apartments, where she had registered three days ago as Mrs. N. Shields, McCoy carefully arranged the body and then ran to an antique shop on a nearby street operated by the dead woman. Here he shot Ross.

From the Mors shop, McCoy, the officers said, fled to another antique store and there shot Mr. and Mrs. Schapp.

Witnesses Shooting

Sam H. Stern, a visitor at the store, told police he witnessed the shooting of Mr. and Mrs. Schapp and that McCoy had robbed him and thrown a glass of water in his face, after cursing him and threatening to kill him.

At the Nottingham apartment house police found Mrs. Mors' body stretched on a couch.

The body was partly covered with a silence) cloth of the type used on dining tables.

Clasped in the woman's hands, across her breast, was a large photograph of McCoy.

According to Chief of Detectives George Home and Captain of Detectives Herman Cline, the body apparently had been carefully arranged after the woman was killed.

From a hurried examination, the police said one shot from a .45 caliber revolver had entered the woman's head. An empty .45 shell was found in the room. McCoy, when captured, was carrying a gun of this caliber.

Denies Killing

The former pugilist was sullen and silent and except for briefly denying that he killed Mrs. Mors, refused to talk to police, who surrounded him.

He was calm and thrust forward a determined chin as he denied the killing.

McCoy was born in Rush county, Indiana, in 1873 and twenty years ago was prominent as a boxer.

His record includes contests with James J. Corbett, Gus Ruhlin, Tom Sharkey and other leading fighters of that period.

'House Divided'

"Kid" McCoy entered the Mors embroglio last Monday night, when he walked into a "house divided" and championed the cause of Mrs. Theresa Mors against her husband, Albert A. Mors, former millionaire metal manufacturer of New York, but now a dealer in antiques.

According to the report filed in the Hollywood police station, Mors called the police and asked them to arrest his wife on a charge of assault against him.

When the police arrived at the palatial home of the Mors Monday night they found Mors, his wife and "Kid" McCoy in a heated discussion.

According to the police, Mrs. Mors declared she loved McCoy and was going to marry him.

When the police arrived they found Mors in one room, cut and bleeding from a wound on the hip and with a bruised lip. With him was another man and two women.

Mrs. Mors and the "Kid" were in another room.

Mrs. Mors told the officers she had brought the "Kid" there for protection. Mors ordered the "Kid" to leave and he refused. A fight is said to have followed.

At that time the officers took a .25 automatic pistol from Mrs. Mors which she kept for "safe keeping."

Mors declared that he was showing dinner guests through the house when Mrs. Mors and "Kid" McCoy rushed in on them and the former prize-fighter attacked him.

Attempts of the officers to bring peace were unsuccessful, so Mors and his guests left for the police station to file a complaint and Mrs. Mors and McCoy remained at the Mors home.

Last Romance

Kid McCoy's tenth romance was his last.

Hero of many film stories and ring encounters the former pugilist stood charged today with the murder of the woman he was said to have planned to make his tenth wife.

A short distance from the police station here which held McCoy as prisoner, Mrs. Therese Mors, the woman he loved, lay dead with a large photograph of the former pugilist clutched tightly in her hands.

McCoy grouched in his cell and carefully smoothed out his soiled clothes in an effort to restore to himself a semblance of his position in Hollywood as "a man about town" and "atmosphere" motion picture actor, refusing to talk.

He merely adjusted his necktie and brushed his rumpled hair as he was plied with questions.

Lashed by the tongues of his accusers the "kid" maintained the same fighting spirit which for years characterized him as one of America's most celebrated boxers.

His reputation as a fighter made him popular with motion picture producers and he had appeared in scores of pictures. His latest part was in "The Telephone Girl," a production just now being finished.

Kid McCoy was for twenty years one of the most colorful boxers in the history of the ring.

He was born in Rush county, Ind., in 1873, and in 1891 started boxing. When he entered the ring he was little more than a welterweight, boxed many years as a middleweight and finally as a light heavyweight. In his battles he often gave away many pounds in weight and depended upon his cleverness and quick thinking to win for him.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Steel shares were the source of much speculation in today's stock market with rails and equipments coming in for their share of attention. The Iron Age today reported the course of the steel trade as indicating a measurable increase from week to week in the output of rolled products, and the U. S. Steel corporation was reported as operating at three per cent greater rate than last week. No marked changes in prices were brought about this week, according to the Iron Age, though buyers are not yet convinced that the low point has been reached.

New orders have been flowing to the railroad equipment committee in recent weeks, creating a better demand for the stocks of prominent companies. Railway Steel Spring was again the feature of this group, with a rise of four points to 124⅞; Baldwin & Pullman, after a long period of inactivity, also joined the rally. Low-priced rails, like Missouri Pacific and St. Louis San Francisco preferred, started the advance in the rails today, but the response of the rest of this group was very tardy and it was not until the fourth hour that anything like concentrated buying appeared in the list.

New York Central and Nickel Plate repeated their almost daily performance of establishing new high prices for 1924, the former at 110 and the latter at 116½. There were no spectacular developments in the merger stocks, though it was reported today that minority stockholders of Chesapeake & Ohio were planning to institute measures to give them a larger share of the capitalization of the enlarged Nickel Plate than was assigned them in the "semi-official" statement issued last.

Individual movements took place in a number of isolated specialty stocks. The Pan-Americans were the only strong spot in the oils, though the Standard Oils made a better showing than in the last two days and some of the independent oils regained a portion of their losses. Prices of crude oil in the mid-continent field will come in for one more cut this week or next, according to rumors and that will bring them at or near the low of last year, despite the fact that production is nearly 300,000 barrels a day less than in the peak of 1923.

Biscuit company stocks, including National Biscuit and Loose Wiles, sold at higher prices than heretofore, this year. Eastman Kodak responded to the extra dividend and higher earnings. Western Union showed a new forward movement in which prices duplicated the best previous record for the year; Texas Gulf Sulphur made a new high at 77 and American Telegraph & Telephone was active.

L. A. EXCHANGE

By Southland News Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Oil stocks and bonds were the leaders in trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange today, prices in most instances remaining firm although a little profit and loss was recorded.

In the oils Julian preferred was steady at $16 while common was whittled from $9.50 to $9. Union Oil of California was active and firm at $132.75 while Union Associates wavered a bit under $58 at times. United Oil made a slight gain during the morning's trade selling at $51.25.

In the bond list Pacific Gas & Electric was active, the 5½s selling up $97.62½ and $97.75. Edison and Western Pacific were other leaders. Edison common stock sold plentifully at $98 while the 7% was firm at $104.75.

Los Angeles Investment share showed profit taking, opening at $3.50 and going to $3.55 on many small lots offered. Globe Grain & Milling also was active.

In the mines Tom Reed took a decline from $28.50 to $25 during the early trading.

TEARS AND SPECIALISTS' FEES

"Dear Doctor: Kindly let me know how many stamps are necessary to get the pamphlet on 'It Won't Be Any Easier Tomorrow'?

"Can you tell me how much it should cost to have the doctor tend to eyes that never give tears? My friend has never shed a tear, although he has cried much. There is a terrible strain on him when he cries hard and tears do not come. Is it a serious operation? May serious results come of such an operation? Please answer these queries by the s. a. s. e. enclosed. I thank you very much.—C. F."

The only material for which you have to enclose stamps in addition to your s. a. s. e. is the pamphlet on reducing and gaining.

It is impossible for me to answer each letter personally for a number of reasons which I have enumerated in the form letter which we send to you when you ask for personal instructions.

As for the tearless eyes, the lacrymal or tear gland is situated in the upper and outer part of the eye socket. The secretion from this gland issues from several openings on the inner side of the upper lid and under ordinary circumstances just suffices to keep the eyes and the inner surfaces of the lid moist. The secretion is drained off from each eye through a small opening near the inner angle of the eye, one in each lower lid (you can see it), and is conveyed into a little sac. From there it goes down into the nose. Under the excitation of some external irritant or the emotions, the lacrymal gland secretes more fluid than can be carried off by these small openings and it overflows the eyes. The overflow we call tears. This secretion is under nerve control. Now, in the case of your friend, it is possible that the nerve supply is only sufficient for the ordinary functions of lubrication; or it is possible that the glands are congenitally deficient. In either case it is not a condition for operation.

As far as the cost of any operation is concerned, that is a question that is decided by the individual specialist. Just as the lawyer charges a larger fee for a case that involves $100,000 than for a case that involves $100, and just as the courts place a higher economic value on a man who is permanently disabled or killed, if his life expectancy and his earning capacity is high, so the specialists vary their rates for their services with the economic value of them to the particular individual.

I will quote from an article on the subject written in one of the medical journals:

"When a poor man is restored to health, his earning capacity returned to him, economically the physician has restored the ability to earn small wages or salary. If, on the other hand, a $50,000 a year man has been restored to health, the physician has returned to that man the ability to earn that amount of money each year. Regarding the services rendered as a commodity, is not this particular commodity infinitely more valuable financially to the one than to the other? Although the work done and time consumed in the treatment of the two cases may not vary greatly, its price must vary with its economic value to the particular individual."

If your friend is a man of wealth and has to have an operation performed maybe this article will bring tears.

Seriously, I would tell your friend not to worry about his condition. Tell him to get plenty of vitamins, mineral elements, calories 'n everything right in his diet, live a hygienic life and forget his troubles. "If ye have tears, prepare to shed them now," implies that not all had 'em in Shakespeare's time. The condition is not common. It is not dangerous. It has its advantages.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Girlhood Friends

Mrs. L. H. Bowen of Modesto, formerly Miss Ruby Borthick of Glendale, has been enjoying a summer visit here as a guest of her sister, Mrs. E. K. Daniels of 207 West Lomita avenue. Complimentary to Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Shives Mitchell of 551 East Cypress street, arranged a luncheon reunion one afternoon recently of former girlhood friends and schoolmates at the Glendale Union High school years ago.

Luncheon was served under the trees in the garden of the Mitchell home. The afternoon was spent informally, talking over old times. The company included Mesdames Ruby Borthick Bowen, Alma Stone Kelty, Lucile Pittman Duffey, Bertha Patterson Hezmelalch, Josephine Cook Beyea, Edna Valentine McCann, Kathlee Duncan Brown, Eula Richardson Mitchell, and Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. Ella Richardson and Fergie, Billy and Jack Mitchell.

Bridge Hostess

One of the week's most delightful informal affairs was the bridge party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. J. B. La Rock at her home, 643 North Howard street.

A profusion of yellow coreopsis and white Shasta daisies were used in decorating the rooms for the occasion. The afternoon was devoted to playing bridge for which prizes were awarded to Mrs. M. A. Morthland, first; Mrs. John J. Schoonmaker, second; Mrs. Emil Johnson, third, and Mrs. Virgil White, consolation. Later in the afternoon a dainty course of refreshments was served.

The guests included Mesdames Edwin S. Dodds, W. C. Minier, M. A. Morthland, E. W. Cizek, Emil Johnson, Virgil White, Homer Lockwood and John J. Schoonmaker, all of Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana Burket and daughter, Elizabeth Ann, of El Segundo, were week-end guests of Mr. Burket's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Emma Burket and Mrs. Anna Goss at 516 East Harvard street.

A feature of their visit was a birthday dinner given Saturday by Mrs. Burket and Mrs. Goss celebrating the birthday anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Burket and William A. Goss.

Pink, white and green were effectively combined in the appointments for the luncheon. A lovely white birthday cake, decorated with sweetpeas and the birthday dates fashioned in icing, was served with the final course.

There were present Mrs. Julia Goss, Mrs. Ruth Isham, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Goss and Philip, William and Edith Goss; Mr. and Mrs. Dana Burket and Elizabeth Ann; Mrs. Anna Goss and Mrs. Emma Burket.

SUMMER TAN

Women whose complexions tan from the sun are the lucky ones, for tanning is really the skin's way of protecting itself from further sunburn. It means a hardening and toughening of the skin, an increased resistance, and a certain amount of it is very good for the complexion. Unfortunately very few people like it.

A great many people, however, have extraordinarily sensitive complexions which simply burn and burn again without protecting themselves by tan. Each fresh exposure means redness, discomfort and a peeling skin.

The people should protect themselves as much as possible by wearing broad, dark-brimmed hats, carrying sunshades, and, above all, rubbing the skin full of vanishing cream and dusting thickly with powder before going out in the sun. If they have been exposed, on coming indoors cold water compresses will do much to prevent burning. A tablespoonful of toilet water or witch hazel to a pint of cold water is best.

Here is a good sunburn lotion:

Lemon juice	3 drams
Powdered borax	2 drams
Red Rose Petals	1 ounce
Glycerine	2 ounces
Hot water	10 ounces

The lemon juice and borax are dissolved in the hot water, the rose petals are added, and this mixture is kept covered and hot for an hour. Then it is allowed to strain through a jelly bag for 24 hours. The glycerine is added to the strained clear portion. Buy the very best quality glycerine you can find.

The simple, old-fashioned mixture of equal parts peroxide, lemon juice and rose water is also good for sunburn and a bleach for light summer freckles. Cucumber milk, or any good quality cucumber lotion is also recommended, particularly for a dry skin.

The tendency to pimples will likely disappear after a few more years, but you can lessen the annoyance a great deal if you are more careful in eating. Drink about two quarts of water during the day.

Skating Party Winds Up Membership Drive

The membership contest which has been creating considerable interest among the members of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor society of the Glendale Presbyterian church culminated last night with a skating party at Alhambra. The girls of the society were the guests of the boys, the losing contestants.

About thirty young people met at the church and motored to Alhambra. H. L. Brown, superintendent of the society, chaperoned the affair.

Prizes were awarded for the best skating. Lawrence Lynn and Mildred Sooy were awarded the first prize for the best couple. Later in the evening refreshments of cookies and punch were enjoyed.

Many Lives Are Lost In Eastern Drownings

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 13.—Waters of Connecticut this summer have exceeded the automobile in deadliness. Just when a statewide campaign to reduce motor tragedies seemed successful, a startling series of drownings occurred. Every town in the state has recorded at least one such tragedy, and in some towns not a week has elapsed since June began without several such fatalities.

The little seaside town of Fairfield led the list of tragic events when seven small children perished in a summer tornado that overwhelmed their canoe. From Greenwich to Stonington, the Long Island Sound shore has been claiming victim after victim until the oldest resident knows of no precedent. A dozen lives have been lost in the smooth-flowing, treacherous Connecticut river that cuts the state in two, and the little lakes that dot the state from end to end have claimed many more than that number. Most of the victims have been children, but an unusual number of grown-ups have perished.

Animals Affected by Cool Summer Weather

RIDGEFIELD, Conn., Aug. 13.—Cool weather is making summer a strange proposition for wild creatures as well as for human beings. A five-foot black snake entered a house at Cannondale and found its way between the mattresses of a feather bed. Residents were roused in the middle of the night by wild shrieks, when the snake finally crawled into the part of the bed where a seven-year-old girl lay. The snake was despatched as it tried to crawl downstairs and its carcass was brought here to vouch for the tale.

Where a year ago drought was forcing snakes into the open and making life interesting for haying farmers, the cool weather is sending them to the roadsides for a chance at sun bathing, and highways are spotted with snake victims of motor cars.

Hot weather brings me letters from Reader Friends complaining of trouble with household pests. The following information may be of use to other women who are bothered in the same way, but who have not written me to ask for methods of extermination:

Red Ants: These nest indoors, frequently in floors or partitions, but if you sprinkle a few cake crumbs on the floor and then watch to see where the red ants carry them, you can trace them to their nest, and can then destroy the nest as follows: Have your druggist mix you a 5 per cent carbolic acid solution and put this in an oil can, the nozzle of which will go into cracks and crevices. This is a POISON, so do not use it if there are children or pets in the home; instead, use kerosene oil in the oil can, which is almost as effective as the carbolic acid solution. Another method of getting rid of red ants is to smear a plate with lard, let the ants collect on it, then dash the plate into boiling water.

Black Ants nest out-of-doors. If the anthill can be discovered, saturate it with kerosene or with boiling water. If you cannot get right into the anthill, bore a small hole close to it and pour in two ounces of carbon bisulphid, then fill the hole quickly with earth and tramp down.

House Flies: The only really effective method is to prevent development of the larvae. This subject has been exhaustively treated in a bulletin which may be had free of charge from the United States Department of Agriculture, Division of Publications, Washington, D. C. Write to that address for it. Other methods of getting rid of this pest are well known: Namely, with a "fly-swatter," by screening and with sticky flypaper.

Roaches: Use the 5 per cent carbolic acid solution mentioned above if the home has no children or pets in it, otherwise use kerosene. (Do not sprinkle the carbolic acid solution around as you would kerosene; only put it into cracks where the roaches are most numerous.) Traps such as the following are also effectual: Place a slice of bread in a shallow basin with greased sides and set this where the roaches are thickest; darken and close the room for an hour, then go in quietly, turn up light and souse the collected insects with kerosene before they can escape.

Water Bugs: Pour a cupful of kerosene oil into the sink drain once a week and wait 30 minutes before letting any water run down the pipe, then flush with a gallon of boiling water.

DEATHS – FUNERALS

RAYMOND R. FRANKLIN

Funeral services for Raymond R. Franklin, who was a victim of accidental shooting, September 22, 1922, in Glendale, and who died August 9, 1924, at the family home in Lucerne valley at the age of 22 years and 10 months, were held yesterday afternoon, August 12, 1924, at 3:30 o'clock in the chapel of the Jewel City Undertaking company. Rev. R. W. Parmele, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist church, was the officiant. Interment was made in Grand View Memorial park. His death followed influenza which he contracted ten weeks ago.

Raymond Franklin was born October 28, 1901, at Beacher Lake, Wis. The family came to Glendale in February, 1918. The deceased enlisted in the United States army, serving three years. Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Franklin, three sisters, Ella, Grace and Evelyn Franklin, and three brothers, Charles, Ralph and Ben Franklin.

DR. JOHN J. HALLEY

A telegram received this morning at The Glendale Evening News office told of the death this morning, Wednesday, August 13, 1924, at Fort Collins, Colo., of Dr. J. J. Halley of 318 East Randolph street. Mrs. Halley sent the message telling of her husband's death.

Dr. and Mrs. Halley left Glendale some weeks ago for Denver, Colo., where Dr. Halley had brothers who are physicians. In Denver, Dr. Halley underwent an operation and later was taken to a brother's home at Fort Collins to recuperate.

Dr. Halley was a retired physician and a member of the Broadway Methodist church. Funeral and burial are to take place at Fort Collins.

Previous to this trip Mrs. Schulte attended a missionary conference at Asilomar as president of the women's missionary society of the First Congregational church.

Judge and Mrs. H. E. Spafford and sons, Thomas and Franklin, of Dallas, Tex., who are visiting Judge Spafford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Spafford of 314 East Chestnut street, left early this morning for a deep sea fishing trip off the coast at Santa Monica. They were accompanied by their niece, Miss Arlene Baird of Dyersburg, Tenn., who is also visiting here and M. H. Spafford and I. J. Spafford of Glendale.

Burt and Paul Richardson of 317 North Brand boulevard spent the week-end at Catalina.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Carrere of 1152 North Louise street recently spent a month at Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Payson Howard and children moved Saturday from 206 East Dryden street to 1635 Del Valle avenue, Verdugo Woodlands.

Mrs. C. L. Jenkins of 1614 Fourth street, who had her tonsils removed yesterday at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, was able today to return to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Dorman and daughters, Helen and Dorothy of 1325 Barrington Way, have returned home after spending and enjoying a four days' motor trip to Southfork.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Holmes of 439 Patterson avenue, entertained as their dinner guests today, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tlatsott of Denver, who are sojourning in the southland.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren L. Howard and children Eloise, Nellie, Ruth and Marion of 364 West Doran street, and Miss Ione Gomes also of Glendale, plan to motor to Redondo Beach Saturday for a picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hiner of 433 West Salem street, left last Thursday on a motor trip north. They will visit San Francisco, the Big Trees and several other points of interest. They are expected to return home Saturday night.

O. L. Hock of 821 South Glendale avenue, who has been in a serious condition at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital following an operation, is reported as somewhat improved. His condition changed for the better yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hoffman of 515 Patterson avenue, have received word from their daughter, Miss Grace Hoffman, who is enjoying a three months' visit with relatives and friends in the middlewest that she will arrive home in about a week.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and son Stanton of 415 South Central avenue returned home Monday night from Huntington Park, where they spent several days with Mrs. Montgomery's daughter, Mrs. Charles Robert Hurst. The Montgomerys are to move this week to 1259 San Luis Rey drive, Verdugo Woodlands, opposite the site of their new home. Mrs. Montgomery states that workmen are ready to begin construction of the new residence.

Engineer to Cross Atlantic In Midget Craft In Forty Days, Plan

WARRINGTON, Mass., Aug. 13.—William Oldham, Warrington engineer and ex-soldier, has constructed a midget all-steel boat, twelve feet long, in which he intends to cycle across the Atlantic this month.

This strange craft has taken two and a half years to construct. It is built like a submarine, with six water-tight compartments, and is equipped with sails. The only means of propulsion will be a pedal arrangement, worked like a bicycle, connected with the screws.

Oldham estimates the voyage at forty days, during which time he will rely on canned foods. He will sleep in the day time and navigate at night.

Twenty years ago he built a similar boat, but was persuaded not to make the voyage. The present craft has been built entirely by his own hands.

Motorships Third of New British Vessels

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Big progress in the construction of motorships is revealed in Lloyd's latest shipbuilding returns.

For the quarter ending June 30 the motorship tonnage under construction in Britain alone totalled approximately 31 per cent of the total tonnage in process of building, while world figures indicate that motor tonnage reached 45 per cent of the tonnage under construction.

The statistics show that the British shipbuilding trade is on the up grade, notwithstanding the fact that nearly a million tons of shipping is lying idle for want of cargoes.

America Owns Realty Worth Over Billion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Exclusive of the "public domain" and the national parks, the United States government owns real estate valued at $1,542,655,511.81, according to the Federal Real Estate Board.

The total is some millions of dollars less than the amount reported last year, due to a reappraisal of the property controlled by the Department of Commerce.

It was stated that, under the administration of the Real Estate Board, Federal agents no longer hire outside space and property while available government space and property stand unoccupied.

Should the national parks be figured in the total land values held by the government it would be increased by hundreds of millions, officials said.

Franks' Slayers Sane, Say State Alienists

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Two alienists for the state, of comparative distinction and renown with those of the defense, told Judge John R. Caverly today that they examined Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb soon after they confessed to the murder of little Bobby Franks and that they found "absolutely no evidence of mental disease" on the part of either collegian.

And they further told Judge Caverly that nothing which the array of doctors employed by the Leopold families have discovered in their two months of X-ray, prodding, punching and examining the youthful killers have changed their opinion that both Dicky and Babe are sane young men responsible under the law for one of the most brutal crimes in American criminology.

Ann Luther's Suit Is Dismissed by Judge

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Tripped up by a technicality, the $100,000 damage suit brought by Ann Luther, actress and estranged wife of Ed Gallagher of vaudeville fame, against Jack White, Los Angeles mining millionaire, for alleged breach of contract to star her in motion pictures, collapsed here today. Judge Valentine dismissed the sensational suit of the actress, upholding the defense motion for a non-suit.

Dismissal of the action was based on the contention of White's attorneys that if any contract existed between the actress and White it came under the provisions of the statute of frauds.

CHAPTER XXVI

"Oh, tired!" Dora exclaimed. "Don't say the word, now, with the season just starting! We haven't a dinner date left until after Christmas; all the debutantes are working twelve hours with no overtime, as Cy Dwyer says—and all I could do, Hilary, was to say that you'd come to things if you felt like it, and if you didn't I wouldn't make you!"

"Me? Oh, horrors!" Hilary protested. "But how does Craig like it?" she asked.

Was it her anxious fancy, or did a little shadow fall upon Dora's happy face? Dora had dropped exhaustedly into a chair, now, and was smoking a cigarette; her body relaxed, her arms flung at full length over the arms of the chair, her eyes half-closed. She raised the cigarette to her lips with great sweeps, puffed, flung her arm down again.

"He hates it—mostly," she admitted. "He likes bridge; sometimes he has a good time. But he's working awfully hard, and now and then he sends me off without him. You know," Dora added, more simply, throwing away the last of her cigarette, and leaning forward with widened eyes toward Hilary, "you know the awful thing is, you've got to do everything, or you might just as well do nothing! You get caught into it—carried along, really——"

"I can see that!" Hilary agreed, eagerly, feeling that at last this was the real Dora.

"People ask you weeks ahead," Dora continued; "you like them, it's your own crowd, and so what can you do? I stay in bed mornings, and have massage, and skip the women's lunches as much as I can— but even then," she broke off to complain, "you miss something! Last week Elsie Hutchings had a divorcees' luncheon and bridge—it wasn't really that, of course, but Vi Vanderwort was there, and her sister Cissy Sloat, both divorced, and Harriet Pemberton, and we call them that. And Jessie Duer came in with the Russian dancer—Androwska—we're all perfectly mad about her! That was about six, and then all went up to Jessie's place in Westchester; they had a marvellous time!"

"But, Dora, don't you and Craig ever have a quiet evening, in front of the fire, as you and I used to, with the old stove?" Hilary asked. Dora, who had smiled, and had begun to shake her head slowly, suddenly looked thoughtful, looked even a little wistful.

"That was fun, Hilary," she said, softly, after a moment in which her eyes were far away. "No, we don't do that—we never have, you know! We came back from our honeymoon in December, two years ago, and the thing began at full speed. That was the worst rushing we ever did!" Dora recalled, with a shudder. "Dinners and dinner dances! But I was mad about it all then. Then in March we went to Bermuda, with the Wests," she went on. "That was restful, in a way, because we played bridge all the time; and then we went to Southampton, and that fall I went to the Morrills' camp, in Canada; Craig stayed in town, he was busy at the office. It divides the year up into such little scraps, all this going!" she finished, apologetically. "Oh, yes, and this year we were three weeks on the Morleys' yacht, just before the polo," she added. "Hilary," she began again, with a sudden change of tone. "Tell me, how do you like Cecil Atherton?"

"He's the Englishest Englishman I ever saw!" Hilary confessed, laughing.

"His brother is Lord Southeringham," Dora observed. "He has one daughter, about eighteen. Isn't it funny that Cecil will really inherit, like a book, unless his brother marries again?"

"It is funny," Hilary said, struck.

"Did you like him?" Dora asked, a little consciously, after a pause.

"Well, I hardly—yes, I think I did," Hilary hesitated.

"He's—well, he doesn't impress you the first minute, that's the way with those English people," Dora resumed. "But he's a remarkable person, really. Plays polo, he's an eight goaler. Craig thinks he plays wonderfully. And then he plays tennis and golf, too, and at home he's master of hounds. You know," Dora added, dreamily, leaning back again in her chair, "the English have a leisure class; we haven't. Cecil, in his heart, thinks we are all bounders, I'm perfectly certain! Not all of us, but some of us.

"You met him in England?" Hilary asked, to say something. For some reason undefined the topic did not please her.

"No, I only met him last April, when Craig's mother came back. They had made friends on the steamer; she liked Cecil, and she introduced us to him when we met her. We all went to have tea together — it was a simply gorgeous day—you know, one of those really hot spring days when everybody's out in new hats?" Dora said. "Then he was with us on the yachting trip at Newport," she added. "You'll like him."

"Was he in the war?" Hilary asked, very sure she would not like him, and hoping that Dora's answer would discredit him.

"Oh, rather! D. S. O. He was a Lieutenant-Colonel," Dora answered, working over her lips again.

"Butterfly, dearest, why do you do that?" Hilary burst out. "You've got such pretty color. I hate to see you doing what all the others do!"

"I don't—much; it's just a bad habit," Dora said, good-naturedly. "Hilary, darling, we're going to a simple dinner at the Posts' tonight. I know you like them and they like you, and dear old lady Post got seats for the new play—this French play that was written by a father, and played by the son—or maybe it's the other way about—anyway, they're all crazy about it! I'm going to wear my old blue velvet and be comfortable. Did you bring your black with the beads? That's lovely. I wonder what some women I know would give for your hair," Dora added, in farewell, leaning over Hilary, who had flattened herself out on the bed, and pressing her cheek against the coppery mass of it. "That's Craig whistling," she finished, "and I must go and make myself agreeable to the tired business man!"

Hilary saw Craig an hour later, when she went down through the wide hallways and stairways, her evening coat over her arm, and her cheeks bright with the unusual excitement of going out to dinner and the theatre.

Craig was already dressed, smoking a cigarette beside the library fire; his eyes brightened with genuine pleasure when he saw her. He put her coat aside, and they stood smiling at each other, and exchanging the first of the news. She thought that he always looked his best in the severity of evening dress, and tonight she knew that he was finding her at her prettiest, too; she was a little thinner, a little more slender, than the old Hilary; there were new lines of sweetness and strength about her mouth. He had always liked this honest mouth, with its frank, wide smile, and these honest blue eyes that widened so childishly when Hilary was unusually in earnest, and he liked them more than ever tonight. There was something definite, even determined, about her, he decided. She was that rare and indescribable thing: a personalty.

Capacity crowds are greeting the Murphy Comedians at the tent theatre in Casa Verdugo, where "Tess of the Storm Country," well-known drama that has been enjoyed by thousands since it was first put on the stage, is being presented this week. Every member of the cast of the Murphy Comedians scores a big hit in their interpretation of roles.

Glendale theatregoers are finding the tent theatre at Central avenue and Stocker street a place where an evening of good entertainment is always assured. Being only three minutes north of the business section of the city, it is easily accessible. The curtain rises nightly at 8 o'clock, but persons who desire front row seats can come as early as 7:15 o'clock, J. N. Menard, manager of the theatre, announced.

Eastern Buyers Seek Washington's Apples

SPOKANE, Aug. 13.—Eastern apple buyers are arriving in the orchard district of Washington seeking contracts for fall delivery. No bids have been announced, but growers are asking $1.50 a box for Jonathans, the first variety on the market. Present estimates are for a crop of 32,000 cars, or about 66 per cent of last year's crop.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SQUEAKY WHEEL

Down at the seashore, the next day after he had helped Johnnie and Billie Bushytail build the sand house, Uncle Wiggily awakened in the seaweed bungalow where he boarded with Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Well, what are you going to do today?" asked the muskrat lady, as she curled her whiskers in front of the shiny silver water pitcher. For, being a muskrat lady, she had whiskers.

"I shall walk down the sandy beach and look for an adventure," said Mr. Longears.

"I hope no lobster tries to get you, as one did yesterday," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Ha!" Ha!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "I played a good trick on that lobster, all right." And those of you who read yesterday's story know what the trick was.

Uncle Wiggily put on his golf suit and hopped out on the seashore beach. He had not gone very far, twinkling his pink nose, when, all of a sudden, he heard someone call:

"Uncle Wiggily! Oh, you Uncle Wiggily!"

"My goodness!" thought the bunny. "Can this be a sea urchin or some tricky little chap after me so early in the morning?" He was just going to hide behind a clump of seaweed, when he heard a laughing voice, and Bunty ran up and pulled his coat-tails.

"Oh, you little tyke!" chuckled the rabbit uncle, as he patted the bunny girl on her head. "You frightened me!"

"I didn't mean to do that!" said Baby Bunty. "I wanted you to play with me a little while. I'm so lonesome!"

"What do you want me to do?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who felt sorry for the little orphan rabbit, for she had no mother nor father.

"Help me cart sand in my little wheelbarrow!" cried Bunty, clapping her paws. "I've got a nice little red wheelbarrow! it's behind the big rock!" She wheeled the barrow over the sand.

"Squeakee! Squawk! Squick!" went the wheel, for it was very rusty.

"Oh, what a terrible noise!" cried Uncle Wiggily, covering his ears with his paws.

"What noise?" asked Bunty.

"That squeaky wheel on your sand barrow!" said the rabbit uncle. "I must oil it for you."

Bunty wheeled the barrow a little farther.

"Squick! Squee-quee! Squeak!" went the wheel.

"Oh, that's terrible!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Wait until I get some oil!"

Along the sand and up the board walk he hopped until he reached a bicycle store, where he bought a can of oil. Uncle Wiggily was hopping back along the board walk, with the oil, to take the squeak out of the barrow wheel, when, all of a sudden, a sea urchin began to chase the rabbit. Out of the ocean and up on the board walk wiggled the sea urchin.

"I'll scratch your ears!" he called to Uncle Wiggily.

"First you must catch me!" laughed the bunny. Then he squirted some oil behind him on the walk. And when the sea urchin reached the slippery, oily place, his feet slid out from under him and down he fell with a bounce, bumping his nose.

"Oh, wowchie wow!" cried the sea urchin. "I guess I won't chase you any more!" Back into the ocean he jumped, and Uncle Wiggily hopped on with the oil. He took the squeak out of the barrow wheel and then he and Baby Bunty had a fine time playing in the sand.

And if the letter Q doesn't lose its tail when it tries to help the bee make apple butter out of banana skins, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's marshmallow candies.

Word has been received from Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford that they are nicely located at Switzer's camp and are enjoying the mountain air and scenery.

That Glendale is a rapidly growing city is very evident. In February 1911 the population was given as 3000. Now the most conservative estimate places the population at 9000.

Many riders of bicycles, when riding on the streets, love the habit of clinging to automobiles, auto trucks and street cars. The time to use care in avoiding accidents is before they occur.

Storms Damage Crops In Mid-West States

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Storms which swept Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin last week caused millions of dollars of damage to crops. Whole stretches of cornfields in Illinois and Iowa were wiped out. Small grains and fruit orchards suffered in Wisconsin. Excessive rainfall over the middle western states is causing some of the small grains to sprout in the shock.

WHITE SOX PLAY BAY LEAGUE CLUB

Chanslor - Canfield - Midway Team Comes Sunday; Won Last Eleven Games

The Glendale White Sox will have as their opponents next Sunday the Chanslor-Canfield-Midway Oilers of the Bay District League, considered one of the strongest teams in that loop. The invaders have won the last eleven games they have played. Eddie Copeland, old-time big league catcher, is boss of the oilers.

Reiger will draw the pitching assignment again, Boss Carl Sawyer has announced. Reiger has been hurling top form ball for the Sox for some time, and proved that he still has a lot of stuff when he held the Monrovia-Arcadia Elks to three singles last Sunday. He will be opposed by Huffaker, who has hurled the Oilers to victory in the last eleven starts.

Charley Dorman, center fielder, will be the only pale hose wearer not in the White Sox line-up Sunday. Dorman reports to Bill Essick and his Tiger crew today and will finish the season with that team. Over 600 fans are coming to Glendale from Torrence for the game, and the Oilers are determined to put a crimp in the White Sox record of winning twenty-six of twenty-seven games.

NOTRE DAME HAS TOUGH SCHEDULE

Knute Rockne Not Worried About Season's Outlook For Noted Team

By LAWRENCE PERRY
Special Correspondence of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Knute Rockne seems so satisfied with the prospects for another fine eleven at Notre Dame that he is not even spending the summer in the vicinity of South Bend, but is wandering here and there over the west putting in about the busiest summer teaching at various coaching schools that any gridiron professor ever attempted.

Notre Dame's big dates fall on October 18, when she meets West Point, October 25, when she appears at Princeton; then Georgia Tech at South Bend November 1 and Wisconsin at Madison November 8. Nebraska will come to South Bend November 15 to see if she can make it three straight over the Indianas and November 22 the South Benders will take the field in Pittsburgh, opposing Carnegie Tech.

Others Sidestep

Big ten elevens, either mindful of their prestige, or pressed with dates—or both—have let Notre Dame severely alone in recent years—that is to say, the leading conference elevens have. Which, of course, makes the Wisconsin game the more alluring and interesting. The contest will do the Badgers a world of good; no team can play against Rockne's men without benefit, provided players and coaches keep their eyes open.

Perhaps the beneficial results will show in the games played by the men of Madison following the struggle with Notre Dame. Princeton may be expected to display greater familiarity with the Rockne defense than was the case in 1923. Roper, like most coaches, has his faults, but no one ever accused him of failing to profit by bitter lessons.

The Army, too, will be gunning for the shifty Indiana outfit. Captain McEwan, the coach at West Point, is just now in a mood where he would enjoy a victory over Notre Dame as much—or almost—as over the Navy.

SOLONS DEFEATED IN EXTRA INNING

Charley Root Hurls Angels To Victory; Seals Win From Salt Lake

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 13. — Charley Root led the Angels to victory here yesterday over Colonel Pick's Solons by a score of 3 to 1 after ten innings. Canfield allowed only six hits while Root was touched for 10, but the Seraphs got a trio of singles in the tenth which gave them the game.

The defeat shoved the Solons down a notch.

At Salt Lake the San Francisco Seals won a loose game, 14 to 8, with Geary and Griffin doing duty on the mound for the winners. Mulcahy of the Bees flopped and Singleton failed to stem the tide.

Portland won from Oakland 11 to 5, the latter team sending Krause, Murchio, Harris and Robertson to the mound only to fail against Rachac's pitching.

DODGERS
RED SOX
HE PLAYS EVERY POSITION BUT CATCH AND PITCH
HE WAS A MEMBER OF THE SENATORS, DODGERS, RED SOX AND CARDINALS
SOZDS

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Harold Janvrin, once a member of the Red Sox, Senators, Cardinals and Dodgers is now a member of the Little Rock club in the Southern association.

No need to mention that he is filling a utility role with that club. For Janvrin has spent his baseball life as a utility man. It must be said to his credit, too, that he left the big show with the reputation of being the best all-around general purpose ball player in the game—in those days at least.

The Little Rock club acquired Janvrin some time ago from Kansas City. But between the time he left the big show he had seen utility service with Seattle and Indianapolis at least.

One but need take you back to the hectic days of 1916 when the Boston Red Sox machine was plunging along to its second pennant in two years to show Janvrin's worth as a utility man.

Jack Barry, then in his heyday as a second baseman, was playing the game of his life as the season rolled into the final weeks. Then he suffered an injury that put him on the bench for the rest of the campaign.

The calamity howlers kissed the team's chances goodbye.

Change Fails to Halt 'Em

Then came Janvrin's first big chance. Sent in to fill the gap at second he played such sterling ball that the Red Sox continued along at their same gait and won the flag.

He played through the world's series that followed and acquitted himself nobly in the victory the Sox scored over the Dodgers.

The Boston team was Janvrin's first love. He remained in the Hub until the war interrupted baseball activities. When he returned to the game Clark Griffith needed a utility man and obtained him by trade. The need for his services passed. Griff asked for waivers on him. The other clubs allowed him to slip to the minors. Hearing no objections Griff sold him to Buffalo. Before the same season—1919—ended the Cardinals found themselves in need of Janvrin's services and bought him outright. He broke into seven games that fall and then, the next season, played 25 games at first base, 27 games at short and 20 in the outfield.

Then Dodgers Need Him

The next season he divided his time between the Cardinals and the Dodgers, Uncle Robbie trading Jeff Pfeffer for Janvrin and Ferdie Schupp on June 18.

Harold played in a total of 62 games that year. He broke into 17 as a first sacker, 17 as a shortstop, and filled pinch hitting or pinch running roles in the others.

In 1922 Janvrin played one game at first, 15 at second, two at third, four at shortstop, and one in the outfield.

Then Brooklyn let Janvrin —sent him to Seattle in the Pacific Coast league.

Harold broke into 24 games second for the Seattle club. T he was shifted to Indianap There he played 37 games at ond, and 73 at short. He we Kansas City last winter played second there this yea fore moving to Little Rock.

The weather man inter with the playing of other uled games.

Three Universities To Have New Coaches

Three new coaches will take over the football departments of Pacific Coast university teams during the coming season. Glenn Warner, formerly of Pittsburgh, will assume charge at Stanford. He will retain Andy Kerr, who was his advance scout at the Cardinal institution, as his chief assistant.

Up at Corvallis, Paul Schissler will take up matters where Coach Rutherford left them with the Oregon Aggies. It is no secret that Rutherford was something of a failure with the Aggies and Schissler faces a tough job. Schissler hails from Lombard.

J. H. Maddock is the third new mentor for the coast. Maddock goes to the University of Oregon, relieving "Shy" Huntington. The new Oregon mentor is a pupil of "Hurry-Up" Yost of Michigan.

Sande's Condition Is Now More Serious

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The condition of Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, was reported less encouraging today. It was learned for the first time that the rider suffered a broken collar bone in addition to a multiple fracture of the left leg and possible broken ribs when he fell off James Butler's Spurt last week.

Sande was reported to have developed a high temperature, and callers were denied the star rider. It was officially stated at the hospital, however, that Sande's condition was not considered serious.

EXPECT GIBBONS TO MEET TUNNEY

Would Be Great Fight, Says Ring Authority; Tommy Picked to Win

By FAIR PLAY
Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Tommy Gibbons' plans for the remainder of the outdoor season are not known. But everyone supposes he will mix with Gene Tunney before the snow flies.

Over in England Gibbons probably earned a lot of prestige by his quick disposal of Jack Bloomfield, but here there is nothing to indicate that he boosted himself much. He was in the position, so far as American fans were concerned, of being roasted if he did not beat the Englishman in easy fashion and getting no credit if he won.

It is figured that Tunney would have made about as simple a task of stowing Bloomfield away as did the St. Paul mauler. But Tom did display a [illegible]city that surprised those who had begun to think that with increasing years he had developed a benign, kindly spirit which would not tolerate the thought of punishing a fellow mortal unduly.

Tommy Can Hit

So far as that goes the suspicion may be entertained that Tommy's consideration of Carpentier at Michigan City was in the interest of the London battle. If he put Carpentier away, the Englishmen would hardly have heated up as they did over Bloomfield's prospects with the American.

Tommy can hit. He always could hit and when he is not afraid or rather when he does not have to worry about the sort of punishment he, himself, will receive, he can sock with the best of them.

Tunney versus Gibbons figures to be a good fight, a fight worth big money to see. The writer likes Tunney, admires him as a boxer and as a man, but, good fight though it would probably be, he can't see anybody but Gibbons as the winner. In fact, just now, friends of Gene, having his interests at heart, will advise him to wait a while before he tackles this tough Minnesotan.

NATIONAL TENNIS CHAMP UNCERTAIN

Tilden, Johnston, Snodgrass And H. Kinsey May Figure In Net Battles

By WALTER CAMP
Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Soon now we shall be in the midst of the national championship of the tennis courts. For a time it looked as though Harvey Snodgrass were to be a factor. Then as Little Bill Johnston began to get into his stride, his friends said: "This is going to be Johnston's year. But Snodgrass began to break, and Howard Kinsey came along and defeated Johnston at Seabright.

Some say that Johnston is merely saving himself for the supreme effort. If that is true, nothing more dramatic than his comeback will be imagined. But, meanwhile, there looms the conquering figure of Big Bill Tilden, sailing serenely along and winning championship after championship of local sections. Some of his victories were easy, others attained through hard work. But Tilden always seems able to work and come through.

With all the praise that is being rightfully heaped upon Miss Helen Wills, one should not forget another of our representatives overseas, whose work was equally admirable in the events she entered, namely, Mrs. Wightman. And we are indebted to the Pacific coast for one of the brainiest of our women players and the greatest tactician in doubles we have ever seen, for, as Hazel Hotchkiss, Mrs. Wightman, too, came from the golden coast.

BANGTAILS DRAWN

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Priscilla Ruley won the $10,000 Alabama stakes from Princess Doreen and Sun Ayr on a track deep in mud. Seven high-class fillies had been named for the race, a mile and a quarter run, but conditions caused all but the three starters to be scratched. Scratches likewise ruined nearly all the other six races, there being only two starters in the second race.

Pick Michigan Man as Line Coach for U. S. C.

A. J. Sturznegger of Nebraska, who is credited with having much to do with the success of late football teams of the University of Michigan, will be line coach at the University of Southern California, it was announced today.

The new Trojan mentor weighs only 140 pounds, but this handicap does not prevent him from knocking around with the team in practice.

In 1861 the journey from St. Louis, Missouri, to California by stagecoach, required 18 days and cost $225.

YANKEES FACING CRUCIAL BATTLE

Browns Open New York Series With Champs; Pirates Crawling Up

By ARTHUR STRUWE
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—With their backs to the wall, the Yankees today opened their last home stand of the season, playing a series of games that will keep them busy in their own bailiwick until September 7. During this period they will be called on to face contender after contender in the American league race.

The Browns, four games back of first place, will be the first tribe the Yankees will have to meet, a doubleheader being on the program for today. Manager George Sisler of the Browns has his team playing in top notch form and is expected to try to "southpaw" the Yankees to death in today's struggles. The Yankees have not fared well against port slingers this season.

Leaders Are Bunched

The Yankees are practically tied with the leading Tigers, being only a point behind Detroit, with the Senators a game and a half in the rear. While the Yankees are meeting the Browns, the Tigers will have easier prey in the Athletics, in seventh place, and the Cobbites are expected to make hay while the sun shines. If the Tigers can go through the east on this trip like they did on the last one, they will go back home with a lead that will be hard to overcome.

The Senators also are expected to gain ground at the expense of the Indians, while the Yankees and Browns are in their death grapple.

Pirates Dangerous

While the fight is waxing hot in the American league, the Giants also are meeting stern opposition today. They begin a four-game series with the Pirates, who are now playing the best ball in the National league. The Giants have a lead of seven games. If the Pirates can win the majority of games from the Giants, New York will have a hard fight to win.

Two years ago the Pirates came to New York with a lead of seven games—the same number the Giants now enjoy—and had the pennant practically sewed up. The Giants tore into them, beat them five straight and soon galloped into the lead and another pennant.

Fandom is asking—will history repeat?

D. SHADE, COLIMA BATTLE TO DRAW

Capacity House Sees Fight At Vernon; Dave Best At Infighting

Once more have Dave Shade, welterweight challenger for the crown now worn by Mickey Walker, and his old-time rival, Bert Colima, the Whittier Flash, battled to a draw. The bout was staged last night at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena before 9000 fans. Many fight fans present contended that Shade should have been given the decision, winning all but the first round, but the judges called it a draw.

Shade showed up stronger on the infighting than did his opponent. He was constantly boring in and on numerous occasions staggered his foe with short jabs that carried a lot of power. Colima used long range punches with telling effect. He seemed to protect his injured left hand during the bout.

George Lavigne won over Leonard Fox in the semi-windup. Ernie Hood was given the decision over Benny Diaz in the special spot bout. The bout between George Gilmore and Leo Rose was stopped in the fourth round to keep Rose from further unnecessary punishment. Eddie Sylvester got an unpopular decision over Chic Rocco after four rounds of fast milling. Young Garcia was too good for Charlie McBride. Johnny Gay and Al Thomas slugged most of the time in the opening bout until Gay's chin stopped a hard right and Thomas put on his bathrobe and called it a night.

Strangler Lewis Will Defend Title Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, will defend his title here tonight in a match with Joe "Toots" Mondt of Colorado.

TAGGING THE BASES

Walter Johnson turned in his 106th shutout victory when the Senators whitewashed the Indians 10 to 0. Walter also fanned eight men, bringing his total strikeouts to 3180. The victory sent the Senators to within a game and a half of the leading Tigers.

No home runs yesterday.

NEVADA SITE OF CRADLE OF RACE

Scientists Find Traces of Prehistoric Races In Excavating Cave

By W. H. BUNTIN
For International News Service.

LEHMAN CAVE, Nev., Aug. 13.—The theory that Nevada was the cradle of civilization and the Garden of Eden is expected to be advanced if excavations, being made near here by Dr. Benjamin F. Schappelle and Dr. Peter Frandsen of the University of Nevada, of two caverns which are lined with hieroglyphics painted in red and black ochre, unearth an underground city which preliminary discoveries indicate existed here ages ago.

The excavations in debris-filled caverns to date have unearthed rock writing on the lime formation which resembles both the Aztec and Egyptian pictographs. Some of the pictographs are covered by great lime stalactites which denote age.

Sun Worshippers

Dr. Schappelle declared today the discovery may be considered one of the most important in recent times. Artifacts found by him establish the pottery line 300 miles north of that determined by archaeologists heretofore. A figurine of gouged stone shows the bulging eyes and head of an idol which, according to the archaeologist, is undeniably Aztec in origin. Hieroglyphics already discovered show that the extinct race which made them, were sun worshippers, as were the Toltecs of Mexico, and the Mayas of Central America.

Just across the narrow canyon from the caverns, high up on the mountain side is the entrance to an underground river. The river is about ninety feet below the level of surrounding surface streams and flows toward the new caverns which are in line with Lehman cave.

Seek Buried City

Dr. Frandsen found an earth worm near the edge of the underground stream and a bit of willow which shows that life is supported that far beneath the surface of the earth. The air in the underground channel is pure and fresh and it is thought that when excavations across the canyon are complete an underground city with a river flowing through the center of it will be in evidence. If it can be shown that habitation of this city preceded that of Mexico and Egypt, students say, it is very likely that the Garden of Eden was in a Nevada limestone cave.

Helen Wills Winner, Defeating Mrs. Falk

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 13—Miss Helen Wills, woman's national champion, went through her second round today when she defeated Mrs. Helen Pollok Falk of Elberon, N. J., in the women's tennis tournament, 6-0, 6-0. Two rounds were scheduled to be played. The doubles championship also got under way. Miss Helen Wills and Mrs. George W. Wightman, the Olympic doubles champions, were the favorites. Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, met Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., in another feature match.

Miss Wills was her brilliant self and broke Mrs. Falk's service in the opener for her thirteenth consecutive win of the tournament. Helen was driving deep with her returns and blazing over her service and quickly ran ahead with a lead of 4 to 0 in games. She took the next two with the loss of only a single point, to win the set, 6-0. Mrs. Falk handled the Wills service creditably, but could not cope with the champion's cross court placements. The few points she lost were outs of a few inches beyond the line. Miss Wills went into an early lead in the second set, 4-0 in games. She was driving at Mrs. Falk's toes and hitting the mark consistently. She broke Mrs. Falk's service in the fifth at love and then made her own service good for the game at 4-2, the set at 6-0, and the match at 6-0; 6-0.

Syracuse Will Claim Youngest U. S. Co-ed

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Syracuse University expects to enroll the nation's youngest co-ed this autumn. She is Miss Loretta DeLaney, fourteen, Skaneateles Falls, who graduated from high school in June. Parents of Miss DeLaney say she will be "on the Hill" this fall.

Moses Finkelstein, twelve, Syracuse, gives the university the distinction of having one of the youngest students in any university in the United States.

JUNIOR TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—S. A. Ingram of Providence, R. I., advanced to the semi-finals in the national junior tennis tourney today by defeating H. P. Bancroft of San Diego in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. Neal Sullivan of Philadelphia also advanced to the junior semi-finals by trimming Alan Herrington of Los Angeles, 6-8, 8-6, 6-3.

FIRPO USES LEFT

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Luis Firpo today concentrated on left-hand punches, lack of which, experts declare, is his greatest weaness. The "Wild Bull's" daily program is two rounds of sparring with Bill Tate, the giant negro, and with Miguel Ferrara, another Argentinian.

Pasadena and Arcadia Elks to Play Sunday

Brookside Park, Pasadena, is expected to be jammed to capacity next Sunday afternoon when Arcadia and Pasadena clash in the feature struggle of the Elks' loop schedule. Though these clubs have staged many bitter baseball feuds during the past few years, Sunday's skirmish looms as a battle royal.

Ed Duffy, one of the right-handed pitching aces in local ranks, will fling for Arcadia. Manker or Arkenburg will work for Lorin Ury's club.

Johnson-Jackson Go Will Not Be Held

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., Aug. 13.—Jack Johnson, world's champion ten years ago, will not meet Tut Jackson in the negro finals of a fight program at the Oswego arena Friday night, Mayor Frank Callahan affirmed today, acting on orders of Governor Emmett Branch. The governor advised that the bout be called off for the good of boxing.

CANDY CO. PLANS TO COVER COAST

Sister Polly's Productions Are Winning Popularity By Excellent Quality

The recent launching of the Sister Polly Home-Made Candy company, which is located at 239 South Verdugo road, Glendale, bids fair to pave the way for a coast-wide project.

Already the fame of this delicious product is spreading from household to household, and each day finds a demand for increased production.

The promoters of the Sister Polly Candy company are preparing to establish manufacturing plants in several larger cities, the first of which will be in San Francisco, and others will follow as each one becomes established in its respective location. It is pleasing to note that this project had its birth in Glendale, which seems especially conducive to the fostering of new enterprises.

Only the purest and freshest ingredients are used in manufacture of Sister Polly Candies, which is one of the secrets of its deliciousness and wholesomeness, and, through its appeal to the most critical sense of taste, it is receiving a patronage far in excess of the fondest hopes of its manufacturers.

Baptist Church to Be House Warming Scene

SUNLAND, Aug. 13.—A house warming will be given in the Sunland Baptist church Wednesday evening, August 13, by the Ladies' Aid society.
